Only a Year.
"Only a year," oh, that's not long!"
Lightly the words were said;
But they fell like the closing notes of a song
On the ears of one who had waited long.
The days and months seem long, so long—
Ah, me! though "only a year!"
Time enough for friendship to die,
Though only one short year,
But the fate of many within it lie—
There is time enough to laugh and to cry,
Enough to hope and to fear.
Time for the orange flowers to grow,
To breathe the bride's fair lead;
Time for the wintry winds and snow
To cover the hearts that have loved us so,
And grass grows green instead.
"Only a year!" It is not long
When hope the heart does cheer;
When the future is bright the heart is strong,
But when memories only to belong
The days and months seem long, so long—
Ah, me! though "only a year!"

Poetry.
Only a Year.
"Only a year," oh, that's not long!"
Lightly the words were said;
But they fell like the closing notes of a song
On the ears of one who had waited long.
The days and months seem long, so long—
Ah, me! though "only a year!"
Time enough for friendship to die,
Though only one short year,
But the fate of many within it lie—
There is time enough to laugh and to cry,
Enough to hope and to fear.
Time for the orange flowers to grow,
To breathe the bride's fair lead;
Time for the wintry winds and snow
To cover the hearts that have loved us so,
And grass grows green instead.
"Only a year!" It is not long
When hope the heart does cheer;
When the future is bright the heart is strong,
But when memories only to belong
The days and months seem long, so long—
Ah, me! though "only a year!"

Let Your Light Shine.
BY M. NORTON.

When Hope's dress is thin and threadbare,
When her gorgeous tins are gone,
When the heart of comfort's shillies,
Making night time of the morn'g.

From the crashing flow that falls,
Ere we learn what life can teach,
Many a sad heart goes in darkness;
And you'll find, when seeking onward,
That the darkest path will surely bless.

When the days of dawnest sorrow,
And the hours of mortal strife,
Fill the heart with stormy anguish,
Blazing all the hopes of life.

There is the eager spirit,
For the faithful shining light,
Watch with an anxious longing
Till its rays shine clear and bright.

When one's life is in despair,
And all has seemed to go wrong,
When the heart is in a turmoil,
And the soul is in a throng.

When the heart is in a turmoil,

Cleansing the Teeth.

Regular and thorough cleansing of the teeth (and mouth) is the most important of all personally available means for their preservation. It adds to the beauty of the face, the purity of the breath, the comfort of the possessor, and increases the pleasure derived from the sense of taste, promotes good digestion, and greatly reduces the liability to inflammatory diseases of the mouth and throat.

Very many teeth suffer from improper methods of cleaning and others from insufficient cleaning by the best methods.
Intelligent people who are in other respects very fastidious sometimes err unintentionally in this respect. The essentials are: First, a suitable brush of medium stiffness, with bristles neither too hard, too yielding nor too long. If a new brush be too stiff, it may be softened by placing it for a few minutes in moderately hot water, the length of time being determined by the rapidity of its softening. Brushes vary in this respect. Brushes should be placed so that they will dry when not in use; otherwise they will become too soft to be much service.

The most important movements of the brush are those which carry the bristles from the gums toward the grinding surfaces of the teeth and these movements are easier if a curved brush be used. If, in addition to the curvature, both of the brush and the handle, the last of bristles at the extreme end is longer than the rest, the teeth in the back part of the mouth can be reached more effectively. The outer surfaces of these need special care. After brushing the outer, inner and grinding surfaces of the teeth with such a variety of motions as to completely remove all concretions and particles of food, the mouth should be very thoroughly rinsed with warm water, to cleanse the surface of the cheeks and tongue, carrying away discolored particles. They ought always to be brushed after eating, and by all means after the last meal or bed time.

A long, slender quill toothpick, with a smoothly-tipped, thin, blunt end, should be used both before and after brushing.
A whisp in your ear: Use it with the same privacy, in compliance with good form, that attends the use of its companion
—the brush. Wood and metal toothpicks are inferior, and numerous cases of abscess of the gums have been caused by a small splitter from a wooden pick becoming imbedded in them. Waxed silk floss should be drawn back and forth between the teeth to cleanse places which cannot be reached by the brush. Mouth washes and lotions should be used with extreme caution, as the secret of this easy cleaning lies in an acid which soon destroys the enamel. Occasionally a tooth powder is necessary, but proceed with it with the advice of a dentist. —Exchange.

Saved His Hide.
"Did you never profit at any carefully watching the moon's phases?" asked the man with the face, as he stood in a group that were discussing Luna's curious prophesies.

"Well, yes, by the way, when I come to think of it, this moon superstition did me a good turn once. It was a warm, spring day. I was a boy. Over in the Yough River I saw the sunfish. The sunfish were just coming to the surface, and the water was in a hurry. Suddenly a happy thought struck me. Well, you see, he'd be laid when the 'sign' was favorable, else it would sink down into the ground, so I up to it says: 'Paw! I don't believe the sign is right for rain building.'"

"Oh, yes," says he, "I think it is. Still, maybe we'd better make sure of it. I'll go up to the house and look at the almanac."
"I'll go," says I. "You sit down here and rest."

"Well, he was so tickled at my thoughtfulness and my newly awakened interest in the 'signs' that he didn't suspect my scheme. I rushed up to the house, looked at the sign book and almanac and saw that the sign was dead right for fence building. Then I hid the almanac, got my fishing tackle and lit out for the river. I passed near where I had hid the old sign, but not too near, just near enough to call to mind that the sign was all wrong for that kind of work, and then skipped out over the hill before he could ask any questions. I gathered up one of my clubs, and we had great day."

"Now that I think of it, I know that I have never crowded as much pure joy into any one day from that to this. When I got home that evening my father gave me search for the almanac and began looking for a halter strap that he used on special occasions like this, but when I said,
'Paw, the sign was just right for fishin',' and laid my big string of plump beauties at his feet, he desired and said: 'My boy, there's no use keeping you on the farm.
We'll make a lawyer of you.' And they did it."

"Now, these brethren know that the signs which they think must be done by somebody, that, in fact, if they were not done, the order would speedily go to the demolition boys. But this does not trouble them. They are selfish by nature and shirks by habit, and it does not bother them how long they wait and sweat for the benefit. They are determined to get something for nothing, or as near nothing as circumstances will permit, and with this in view they have no time to reflect how mean they are. —Exchange.

Woodward Fund is Ours.

The Supreme Court handed down a decision on Friday relative to the Woodward fund and property, left by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward in 1850 for the endowment and support of a female institution in this city, and which has since been managed by the town and city.

Certain doubt arising as to provisions in the will a bill in equity was brought to obtain instructions of the court, and Dartmouth college, to whom the property would fall in case of any breach of the will, was on hand to vigorously protest its interest. The fund amounts to over $300,000.

The main points at issue were:

Acceptance of the trust.

Guaranty of interest at six per cent.

Illegal taxation of property.

Admission of females born in Quincy only.

The court says:

"The only breach of condition that can be urged with any plausibility as an existing ground of forfeiture is that the town has failed to comply with the words and intent of the will as determined by good judges.

The fact chiefly relied on as a failure to comply with the will is the alleged failure of the plaintiff to give such a guaranty as is required by the words last quoted. They are taken to require the express consent of some one not specified, guaranteeing 6 per cent. interest, as a condition precedent to the vesting of the gift, or, if the making of the contract is not such a condition, the capacity to make it, at least, is said to be so.

The guaranty is said to be the consideration and inducement of the gift. * * * We are of opinion that the guaranty plays a much less important part in the testator's scheme than the defendant's argument assumes.

In the first place the word 'guaranteed' qualifies the word 'fund,' and the fund first mentioned in the will is the gift, consisting of real estate and pews, some of which, by clause ten, of the same article, cannot be sold or let for more years. That is to be made up from sales, rents, profits and income. So long as the original real estate is kept, there is no need of a guaranty of that, and none is required. The requirement, therefore, plainly is a condition subsequent, as the town could have no such fund until it had received and held the gift for some time. Moreover, the provision does not express the object of the gift, but merely a means of securing the fund, so that it may be forthcoming for application to the object. It does not set forth the consideration, but merely an administrative detail.

Again what is to be guaranteed? Grammatically and primarily, the fund, and in our opinion, by a true construction, nothing else. The words, 'with 6 per cent. interest,' might be taken, no doubt, to bring in interest also, but it seems to us more reasonable to regard these words as directing that the returns expected from the guaranteed fund estimated at what the rate of the will was a conservative rate of interest, also were to be kept and applied as set forth. It is impossible that the testator should have expected the town to guarantee interest on the whole of the fund, for the institution was to be built and furnished, and no source of money for these purposes was provided except the fund in question.

It is plain from the whole will that the great thing in the testator's mind was the permanent endowment of a female institution, and the general intent gathered from all the words must prevail over any small detail which interferes with it unless clearly he makes exact compliance essential.

The court also holds that the City has a right to appoint a 'board of managers' of the fund, and that it can also borrow from the fund and charge itself interest. It is also further decided that the town may invest any part or the whole of the fund in the purchase or construction of a suitable building or buildings for the use of the school, and that the managers of the fund are to apply a reasonable portion of it for buildings and cannot be restricted or cut down by the general provision for keeping of the fund 'with six per cent.'

The testator cannot have meant that the money need for the building and plant should be guaranteed to yield six per cent. interest. * * * We are not to assume without necessity that the testator either was ignorant of petty obnoxious law or deluged in shaping the plan of the institution which he was anxious to have carried out. Grammatically, we construe 'with six per cent.' as qualifying 'kept,' and substantially as qualifying the application ordered, which may be expressed by adding to 'kept' the implied words 'and applied.' Limited as we have limited it, the word 'guaranteed' does not require any contract of the plaintiff, but is used in a popular sense to indicate that the fund is to be kept good and applied as directed.

The decision will be given more fully in the DAILY LEDGER of Saturday.

Fires of 1893.

From returns of fires reported by Chief Engineer Ripley the number of bell alarms of fire during the year 1893 was 51, of which number 37 had a fire loss. There were also 13 still alarms during the year.

The estimated value of property here destroyed was $197,467; the amount of loss by fire $34,287.50; amount of insurance on the property at risk $80,850; loss to insurance companies $41,212.50; loss to owners $12,874.50.

As it is more likely that Chief Engineer Ripley will soon be an ex-official, it might be well to give briefly the value of the department since he has been Chief Engineer, which covers a period of five years. From 1889 to 1893 the number of fires during the past five years, and from data kept in this office the following figures have been compiled:

Total number of bell alarms during the five years, 182.

Number of bell alarms with fire loss, 120.

Value of property at risk, $692,400.00.

Amount of loss on same, $184,575.50.

Insurance loss, $61,883.00.

Loss to owners, $29,724.00.

This shows the average loss during these years to have been a trifle over $12,554 which is not a very bad showing by any means, especially when we consider that the Willard school fire is included in these years.

It was noticed that where the greatest losses occurred was where there was a scarcity of water.

How many cities of a like population can make a better showing?

These figures speak well for the efficiency of our fire department and of good management on the part of the Chief Engineer.

The Willard fire while included in the year mentioned, was a week before the Chief Engineer assumed the duties of his department.

County Finances.

The annual report of County Treasurer Smith of the receipts and expenditures of 1893, and inventory of property by the County Commissioners, appear in another column.

The expenses of the year, including debt, loans and interest of $106,232.88, were $273,692.02, and there is a balance of $47,433.85 in the treasury.

The value of the county property is nearly half a million, $465,488.88, which we believe is free from debt.

An Episcopal mission is being started in East Bridgewater, with an encouraging attendance and support.

The funeral services of Mr. Jonathan Hayden were held at his late residence, Friday afternoon. Rev. W. Sherman Thompson conducted the same; singing was furnished by a mixed quartette. The interment was made at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

Heirs to $23,000,000.

The fortune of $3,000,000 reported Thursday as awaiting Benjamin Webster and his sister, Mrs. Florida Leavitt of Quincy, has now been reduced to $23,000,000, as a result of reports would seem to discredit the whole story but the Boston Journal of yesterday gave the following interview with Mrs. Leavitt:

Mrs. Leavitt, who seemed to be the most interested party, told her story in a straightforward way, and in a tone that impressed one of her earnest belief in the existing fortune.

"It was some time ago," said Mrs. Leavitt, "that this matter was first brought to our attention. My aunt, Mrs. Susan Beale, who lives in North Weymouth, came over one day and related to me the particulars, and told me I had better retain legal advice."

"In the latter part of the summer two New York lawyers came to Marblehead looking for a family named Webster. They found one who they spoke of as Mr. Webster, but they said the family they were looking for spelled their name Webster."

"These lawyers next visited my uncle Daniel, who lives in Cambridge, and asked him how he spelled his name. He told them that he spelled it with two B's. They then asked him what his father's name was, and he told them that it was Daniel and his grandfather's name was Nathan. He had lived in New York."

"I believe you are the party we are looking for," said the New York lawyers.

The Relationship.

"Nathan Webster died some years ago in New York and left considerable property. This property has been in the hands of lawyers for a long time, and all efforts to find some legal relatives have failed up to now."

"Here the lawyer made the remark that the church was now worth $30,000,000 and the park $20,000,000."

"They asked Uncle Daniel if he had any relatives, and Uncle Daniel told him that his sister lived in North Weymouth, and that another relative lived in Augusta, Maine, the latter by the way, Dr. Webster, an Augusta Physician."

"Uncle Daniel also told the lawyers that his brother, who had lived in New York, was dead, but that he had left two children, who are my brother and myself. This Nathan Webster lived in New York, and was one of the early settlers of New York, and planned the first tree in one of the parks of the city."

"Of course, I suppose that since our father is dead."

We are Rightly Heirs.

to anything that has been left to him. Counting Uncle Daniel, Mrs. Beale, Dr. Webster, my brother Ben and myself I would make five heirs, and supposing the lawyer's story that the property was worth $23,000,000 is correct, you can figure out how much each one ought to get."

"Some time ago we saw a piece in the paper, which gave an account of a Webster estate which had been brought to the New York courts. We did not pay any attention to it, as we had no money with which to look the matter up. My brother Ben only laughs when I tell him that he may be a millionaire, but I may have the laugh on him yet. According to the lawyers the case ought to be finished next week."

"Why, just think of it," said Mrs. Leavitt, "the reporter wrote to go, 'if I only get a million I could live on the interest of it.'"

Campaign Expenses.

The Republican and Democratic committees have filed their returns of receipts and expenditures of the municipal election, with the City Clerk as required by law.

That of the Republicans shows the receipts, including a balance of $327.24, to have been $465.73.

The total amount of expenditures, which were for hall rent, carriage hire, printing, and other expenses, was $465.73, leaving a balance on hand of $22.18.

SATURDAY, JAN. 20, 1894.

Large Appropriation.

The Auditor's statement for the year 1893, affords an interesting study. First in the totals. These show $445,922.46 for the year 1893, as against $445,922.46 for 1892. The water account, and to which was added receipts to the amount of $5,024.27. For the water supply and service $12,140 was appropriated, and for extensions $90,000 more. It is not a billion dollar Congress, but a half-million Congress.

Not all of this amount has been expended, as a balance of $123,026.20 of the $445,922.46 remains, but this will be spent in 1894, as in 1893 there was spent $55,910.28 on account of 1892. Among the larger balances of 1893 are $61,895.48 for the new high schoolhouse and $35,022.18 for playgrounds. It is very gratifying to see balances to nearly every account and none over.

The appropriations, however, have increased very rapidly year by year; the limit in the amount that could be raised under the law and the amounts appropriated being:

	Limit.	Appropriated.
1891,	$141,563.00	$295,976.25
1892,	129,098.43	413,704.21
1893,	172,880.54	445,922.46

The limit that could be raised is not the amount of the tax, as the law permits the payment of debt and interest, State and county tax and overlays in addition. The difference between the limit and amount appropriated as above is not therefore the increase in debt, but it is a fact that the debt has increased. Coming to the Treasurer's statement of the receipts and expenditures of 1893, the totals are nearly a million and one-half dollars. The receipts of the year being $1,450,157.05, and the disbursements were $1,390,157.05 on account of 1892, leaving $120,000.00 cash on hand, $1,264,854.21 in 1893. It is the transfer of the water works that makes the totals so unusually large.

Young Men's Christian Assoc.

The fifth district conference of the Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, of which Quincy is a part, was held Friday, also today and Sunday of this week at Whitman.

The conference opened Friday afternoon at the Congregational church, and among those announced to speak were Mr. George A. Litchfield of Wollaston, who talked on "Woman's part in Association work."

This morning the meeting will be held in the Free Baptist hall and the exercises will be almost wholly by Quincy people. General Secretary Colton will open the exercises with a devotional service, being followed by Mr. E. R. Johnson, physical director of the Quincy Association, with a talk on "The necessity of a well directed physical department of the association." Mr. Sherman will speak on "The responsibility of active to associate members," and J. M. Nowland on "The Congress as an educational feature in our work." Mr. Nelson of Campello will also speak on "Volunteer work."

H. L. Hastings, the veteran and infidel lecturer and editor of "The Christian" will address the young men Sunday afternoon at 3.30, on "Mistakes of Moses." The meeting will be held in South Quincy in the Presbyterian church.

The quarterly meeting of the Association will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 24th at 7.45 o'clock. There will be reports of officers and committees and a short entertainment.

Ex-Governor Long has been obliged to postpone his address on Judicial Department of our Civil Government until Thursday evening in February. Dr. J. M. Sheehan has consented to speak one week earlier, so that next Thursday evening the subject will be "The Physiology of Digestion."

The Bible class on next Sunday afternoon will be omitted, owing to the fact that the men's meeting will be held in South Quincy. The training class will be held Monday evening as usual. Twenty-eight members, two-thirds of whom have entered the Christian life during the past year, gathered around the tea table in the association hall last Thursday evening.

After supper, Mr. Page, assistant pastor of the Dudley street Baptist church, Boston, spoke on "Personal Work." Following this, nearly all present spoke of the blessings which they had received during the past year. A number of the workers in the association are assisting in the district conference at Whitman this week.

All the boys who are going to Wolcott Monday evening at 7 o'clock, will be met at the depot by the Quincy Cycle Club.

The regular session of the Young Men's Congress will be held next evening. There will be one or two debates by prominent members, which promises to be exceedingly lively. A number of new members have recently joined.

Quincy Cycle Club.

Hancock hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience Wednesday evening, the occasion being the grand annual entertainment given under the auspices of the Quincy Cycle Club.

In the audience were a number of the Lovell Diamond Cycle club of East Weymouth, and the Suffolk Cycle club of Roxbury. There was also a number of members of well-known amateurs of the silent steed.

When the curtain was run up for the first part of the entertainment the smiling countenance of President Whiton, the lecturer, with his handsome features, and the light, formative, a remarkable contrast to his dusky companions who composed the semi-circle.

In the circle in spite of their blackened faces the well known features of the local pedal pushers were recognized. Their friends in the audience must have been surprised when they heard the musical notes that floated out of their mouths like smoke from the cigarettes they were wont to smoke.

The City Hospital.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held in the Probate Court room, Adams Building, Thursday afternoon, January 25th, at 3 o'clock. Director's meeting at 2.30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired, all interested in the movement, whether members of the Association or not, are invited to be present. The statistics for the past four years are to be read, and plans for the coming year presented.

THE AUDITOR'S statement for the year ending Dec. 31, 1893, shows a balance of the poor department of the city to have been $7,491.98, and of this amount $3,256.07 was for the almshouse. Few cities have taken care of the poor so well, and for so little money. Overseer Field has a balance as usual.

OLD COLONY TRAINS. An order was passed in the Senate on Tuesday to the effect that the Board of Railroad Commissioners be requested to furnish the Legislature with such information as it may possess or be able to obtain relative to all changes in the running of trains by discontinuance or otherwise, and the reasons therefor, on the Old Colony system since the lease of the Old Colony Railroad to the New York, New Haven and Hartford, etc.

STATE TREASURER. All Tuesday night the new Treasury and the old were going over the accounts and seeing that they were all correct. On Wednesday the Committee on Finance examined the securities and found them correct. Mr. Phillips has filed his bond and it has been approved.

The Democratic State Committee of 1894, has organized by the re-election of Josiah Quincy as chairman, and Nathaniel G. Robinson as secretary.

City Clerk Spear has notified the Mayor's appointees and is now ready to administer the oath. The charter requires that this shall be done within five days.

The death of Mrs. Urbane Culworth came rather unexpectedly Tuesday, although quite sick for some days. She leaves a son and four daughters.

The opera that was to have been given on Friday evening at Hancock hall, has been postponed to Tuesday evening next, on account of the Old Fellows' ball.

The Soldiers' home at Chelsea acknowledges the gift of two cases, a mantle rack, three tables and a head to the Soldiers' home at Chelsea, from the Woman's Relief corps of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Miller of Colington street are very fine whist players. On Wednesday evening at the Granite City club they took the two prizes.

Rev. Mr. Yeoman of Atlantic preached a very able and interesting discourse in the Universalist church Sunday morning, which was enjoyed by the audience.

The Guild of the Great Teacher of the First Church, will meet in the ladies' parlour, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. All the young people and others are welcome.

Miss Alice J. Lawrence of Amesbury has taken the place of Miss Eaton as teacher of the high D primary at the Colington school. She comes with six years' experience.

Mayor Hodges kindly remembered his predecessor in the executive chair and also his late rival for the office, appointing the former on the Adams Academy board, and the latter on the Library board.

It is a great neighborhood in the vicinity of the Universalist church, for Principal Assessors. If Mr. N. A. Adams is elected this year, as seems probable, he will be the third chosen from this immediate vicinity, and the city has only four.

Tuesday afternoon a sneak thief entered the fruit store of Joseph Fostello on Granite street while the proprietor was out. He made off with a number of apples and a small quantity of fruit. He emptied it of about $2 in change and skipped.

One of the present assistant engineers of the fire department has a good word for the newly appointed chief. He says Chief Ripley appointed too much. Mr. Williams adds, is a good organizer and will expect all his assistant engineers to be alert to their duties.

The Herald reports the Elizabeth Nevins house, 44 Mr. Vernon street, as closed. Mr. Nevins having been removed to St. Margaret's hospital, where Mrs. Nevins is with him. Mr. Nevins will be remembered as the recent organist of Christ's church in this city.

The Y. M. C. A. hall was well filled Sunday with young men who gathered to hear Rev. Walter Russell Bree, rector of Christ's church, speak on "Purpose." Mr. Bree's address was very practical and was delivered in an interesting manner, which held the closest attention of the young men.

The friends and relatives of Mr. John Dineen and family, deeply sympathizing with them in their late severe affliction, where that dread disease diphtheria, with but little warning, took from them a bright little girl, leaving an aching void in their pleasant home.

An informal meeting was held Tuesday evening by the Quincy Yacht club to consider what rule for membership should be adopted. For the purpose of the meeting, a number of discussion it was voted to have an article in the warrant for the annual meeting calling for water line measurement only with crew aboard.

Dr. and Mrs. William E. Rice are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter at their residence in Ashmont, Dorchester. Mrs. Rice is pleasantly remembered in this city, having taken All May Bates, a leading part in the opera of "Pricilla" rendered here a year or more ago.

The annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association will be held at the Quincy Opera House, Wednesday evening, Jan. 31. The association has put the arrangement of the affairs in the hands of an efficient committee who will spare no pains to make this the most enjoyable association has ever held. The music engaged for the concert and ball is Baldwin's Cadet orchestra.

The horse attached to the tip cart of Henry H. Faxon became frightened in the depot yard Monday just before 9 o'clock, and dashed down Hancock street at a break-neck speed. When opposite J. R. Wild's office the horse slipped and fell and when the turnout came to a standstill the tip cart was upside down and the horse was on his back with his feet in the air. Fortunately no great damage was done.

Few probably remember Mr. Granville B. Putnam as principal of the Quincy High school. He is now a valued teacher of Boston, and third among the masters of that city in length of service. He taught in Quincy three and one-half years, from April 12, 1881, going to Boston in September, 1884, and becoming master of the Franklin school in January, 1885, which position he now holds. He was born in Danvers, has contributed to many publications, and written several hymns, including "Columbia's Jubilee."

WOLLASTON.

The Hancock club held its first social Thursday evening at Hancock hall.

Mr. Wollaston lodge is in luck this year in having good weather, and a grand success is predicted.

But $1,776.83 of the $10,000 appropriated to give work to the unemployed in this city had been expended Jan. 1.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon appeared before the Legislative Committee on Woman Suffrage Thursday in favor of the movement. The Green Room was crowded.

A rather singular coincidence was the death of Mrs. Henry Litchfield on Friday last week and the burning of her former home at Houghs Neck the same day.

ATLANTIC.

Wednesday evening the Atlantic Social club held one of its pleasantest social events, in the form of a "ladies' night" and some 200 of the beauty and talent of Atlantic assembled to make the occasion a noteworthy one.

The success of the affair was due, in a great measure to the efforts of the committee, which consisted of Mr. James E. Currier, J. P. A. Coombs and Mr. Roger H. Wilde.

The musical and literary entertainment was of an exceptionally fine character, and consisted of piano solo, by Mrs. McCullis; soprano solo with cornet obligato, Mrs. Spencer Apollonio; tenor solo, Mr. Wm. E. Owen; violin solo, Master Frank E. Currier; readings, Mrs. Charles Huse; cornet duet, Mr. Apollonio and his little daughter Helen.

A social hour was served and the company enjoyed the balance of the evening in dancing.

Poetry.
Wishes.
I asked a little child one day,
A child intent on joyous play,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?
The little one thought for a while,
Then answered with a joyful smile:
"The thing that I wish most of all
Is to be big like you and tall."

I asked a maiden sweet and fair,
Of dreamy eyes and wavy hair;
What would you wish, pray tell me true,
That kindly fate should bring to you?
With timid eyes and downcast gaze,
Her answer came: "All else above,
I wish some faithful heart to love."

I asked a mother tired and blest,
With babe asleep upon her breast,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?
"O, mother fond, so proud and fair,
What is thy most secret prayer?"
She raised her calm and peaceful eyes,
Madonna-like to the skies,
"My dearest wish is this," she said,
"That God may send my child to me."

Again I asked a woman old,
To whom the world seemed hard and cold;
"Pray tell me, O thou best in years,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?"
With faded hands and bent but true,
She answered me, in accents slow:
"For me remains but one request:
That I may die with peace of mind."

Again I asked a woman old,
To whom the world seemed hard and cold;
"Pray tell me, O thou best in years,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?"
With faded hands and bent but true,
She answered me, in accents slow:
"For me remains but one request:
That I may die with peace of mind."

With faded hands and bent but true,
She answered me, in accents slow:

Wishes.
I asked a little child one day,
A child intent on joyous play,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?
The little one thought for a while,
Then answered with a joyful smile:
"The thing that I wish most of all
Is to be big like you and tall."

I asked a maiden sweet and fair,
Of dreamy eyes and wavy hair;
What would you wish, pray tell me true,
That kindly fate should bring to you?
With timid eyes and downcast gaze,
Her answer came: "All else above,
I wish some faithful heart to love."

I asked a mother tired and blest,
With babe asleep upon her breast,
What are thy wishes, what are thy fears?
"O, mother fond, so proud and fair,
What is thy most secret prayer?"
She raised her calm and peaceful eyes,
Madonna-like to the skies,
"My dearest wish is this," she said,
"That God may send my child to me."

Again I asked a woman old,
To whom the world seemed hard and cold;
"Pray tell me, O thou best in years,

With faded hands and bent but true,

The County Tax.

The movement of the County Commissioners to obtain authority to make a special loan of $125,000 for improvements, has led to an investigation of county expenditures and county taxes. For the ten years prior to 1892, the county tax was as follows:

Year.	Amount.
1882.	$62,000.
1883.	65,000.
1884.	65,000.
1885.	65,000.
1886.	65,000.
1887.	65,000.
1888.	65,000.
1889.	65,000.
1890.	65,000.
1891.	105,000.
Average for 10 years.	$70,000.

During the above period there were several items of extra work such as:

- Repairing Aqueduct about $3,000.
- Repairing and Heating about $6,000.
- Trunk School about $15,000.
- New drainage about $7,000.

While expenses have increased to some extent, the amount to be levied in taxation need not exceed $85,000 a year for current expenses.

Contract for Court house work, amount to about $15,000, for which amount the sum of $85,000 has already been paid, leaving a balance of $72,000, to be provided for.

There was a balance in the treasury Jan. 1, 1894, of $47,433.55. Deduct this amount from $72,000 leaves a balance of about $24,566.45 to be provided for.

For the last two years the county tax has been $140,000 a year, and as the ordinary expenses do not exceed $85,000, if the same amount, $140,000, is raised the present year, the county will have money to pay the ordinary expenses, and furnish a surplus of $55,000 to be applied to finishing the work on the Court house. Is there any need of a special loan?

Burns' Anniversary.

There was a lad born in Kyle—
But what a day or what a night,
I don't know, but I know that
To be a boy was his lot.

A century has well nigh elapsed since the life career of Robert Burns ended, and the soul of Scotland's national poet passed to that silent country where reigns the long reign of the great and the good.

Born at Alloway, Ayrshire on the 25th of Jan. 1759; he died at Dumfries on the 21st of May, 1796, at the early age of 37.

The brief meteor-like career of Burns was sad and stormy, but by the year of his death he had made his name which will live in the hearts of his countrymen as long as Scottish songs exist. No greater proof of the continued popularity of the writings of Burns could be wished, than is shown by the fact that year by year the anniversary of his birth is celebrated with increasing enthusiasm in all parts of the world where the mother tongue of Scotland is known and understood.

Seldom has a more

been held, than that which assembled in the hall, on Tuesday evening, the 25th inst., being a Burns entertainment and haggis supper, which was tendered the "Loyal Ladies" of Quincy by their husbands, sweethearts and friends.

Shortly after eight o'clock, the company which numbered about 175, took possession of the hall, and installed Dr. McLenan, the popular South Quincy physician, as chairman for the evening. After a few remarks from the doctor the following programme was rendered. Mrs. Magpie Smith accompanying the singers on the piano with an artistic skill which was highly appreciated by all.

Songs and Chorus. "There was a lad" Song—"Castles in the air."
Reading. Mr. Alex. Kemp
Song—"My Girl I left behind." Mr. C. Craig
Song—"Twas with a mile."
Miss H. Eason
Song—"The Sea King." Mr. Wm. Kinney
Song—"Aye Banks and Braes."
Miss Smith
At this stage Mr. A. M. Craig was called upon to deliver an Address upon Burns.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Craig said: "The time of the most unerring test that any work can get, only that which is worthy and true can survive. The ever-growing influence of Burns' poetry speaks volumes for its value. His personality was so identified with his productions that they form his best biography. His powers were varied and bright. In dealing with women he was particularly happy. They were the subjects of some of his brightest poems. Other diversions were tame and insignificant compared with the delights experienced in their society. The charm of Burns' poetry lies in its intense truthfulness to human nature. His men and women are real—those with whom he was daily associated. He shed a lustre of light upon the lives of his contemporaries. He was dear to us because of his faults, they attested his common humanity and inspired love and devotion among others. The general appreciation of his works is ever developing, and his songs of love, of nature, of life, and of death, are in a continuous circle of divine melody."

Part Two.

Song—"Molly O." Mr. John Daley
Duet—"I'm wearin' a w." Misses Eason and Miles
Song—"Gae bring me." Mr. George Bowman
Song—"Come with banjo accompaniment." Mr. Pierce
Song—"Soldiers' Fare" Mr. D. Thompson
Trio. Messrs. Daley, Craig and Pierce.

The various items on the programme well received; responses being called for in almost every case. The rendering of the songs and readings was ready, and the applause which the artists received was well merited.

At the close of the entertainment, the hall was cleared, and dancing was soon in full swing, under the door of the Scotch dances seemed to be much in favor, and the company adjourned to the smaller hall where the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily. Shortly after twelve o'clock the word was passed that supper was ready, and the company adjourned to the smaller hall where the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily. Shortly after twelve o'clock the word was passed that supper was ready, and the company adjourned to the smaller hall where the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily.

The work of Mr. A. D. Smith and the committee who arranged and carried this affair to such a successful issue, is much to be commended. Good times like these do much to foster good fellowship and social unity in community, and if this has been accomplished even in a small degree, the time and labor given by the promoters of this anniversary celebration of the birth of Burns will not have been given in vain.

Reminiscence in Quincy.

The Minneapolis Times reports the death in that city, Jan. 16, of Elizabeth Brackett, aged 83 years, at her residence, 3200 Stevens avenue. She was born in Quincy, Mass. She leaves three sons and one daughter to mourn her death, viz: Mrs. C. S. Gold, H. C. Brackett, F. E. Brackett and George Brackett. The latter is a member of the Minneapolis police force.

Mrs. Brackett resided in the Toan house on Elm street, and Mrs. Rollo H. Newcomb (Miss Ella Brackett) is a granddaughter. The children mentioned above were born in Quincy, we believe.

1891.	105,000.
Average for 10 years.	$70,000.

During the above period there were several items of extra work such as:

- Repairing Aqueduct about $3,000.
- Repairing and Heating about $6,000.
- Trunk School about $15,000.
- New drainage about $7,000.

While expenses have increased to some extent, the amount to be levied in taxation need not exceed $85,000 a year for current expenses.

Contract for Court house work, amount to about $15,000, for which amount the sum of $85,000 has already been paid, leaving a balance of $72,000, to be provided for.

There was a balance in the treasury Jan. 1, 1894, of $47,433.55. Deduct this amount from $72,000 leaves a balance of about $24,566.45 to be provided for.

For the last two years the county tax has been $140,000 a year, and as the ordinary expenses do not exceed $85,000, if the same amount, $140,000, is raised the present year, the county will have money to pay the ordinary expenses, and furnish a surplus of $55,000 to be applied to finishing the work on the Court house. Is there any need of a special loan?

Burns' Anniversary.

There was a lad born in Kyle—
But what a day or what a night,
I don't know, but I know that
To be a boy was his lot.

A century has well nigh elapsed since the life career of Robert Burns ended, and the soul of Scotland's national poet passed to that silent country where reigns the long reign of the great and the good.

Born at Alloway, Ayrshire on the 25th of Jan. 1759; he died at Dumfries on the 21st of May, 1796, at the early age of 37.

The brief meteor-like career of Burns was sad and stormy, but by the year of his death he had made his name which will live in the hearts of his countrymen as long as Scottish songs exist. No greater proof of the continued popularity of the writings of Burns could be wished, than is shown by the fact that year by year the anniversary of his birth is celebrated with increasing enthusiasm in all parts of the world where the mother tongue of Scotland is known and understood.

Seldom has a more

been held, than that which assembled in the hall, on Tuesday evening, the 25th inst., being a Burns entertainment and haggis supper, which was tendered the "Loyal Ladies" of Quincy by their husbands, sweethearts and friends.

Shortly after eight o'clock, the company which numbered about 175, took possession of the hall, and installed Dr. McLenan, the popular South Quincy physician, as chairman for the evening. After a few remarks from the doctor the following programme was rendered. Mrs. Magpie Smith accompanying the singers on the piano with an artistic skill which was highly appreciated by all.

Songs and Chorus. "There was a lad" Song—"Castles in the air."
Reading. Mr. Alex. Kemp
Song—"My Girl I left behind." Mr. C. Craig
Song—"Twas with a mile."
Miss H. Eason
Song—"The Sea King." Mr. Wm. Kinney
Song—"Aye Banks and Braes."
Miss Smith
At this stage Mr. A. M. Craig was called upon to deliver an Address upon Burns.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Craig said: "The time of the most unerring test that any work can get, only that which is worthy and true can survive. The ever-growing influence of Burns' poetry speaks volumes for its value. His personality was so identified with his productions that they form his best biography. His powers were varied and bright. In dealing with women he was particularly happy. They were the subjects of some of his brightest poems. Other diversions were tame and insignificant compared with the delights experienced in their society. The charm of Burns' poetry lies in its intense truthfulness to human nature. His men and women are real—those with whom he was daily associated. He shed a lustre of light upon the lives of his contemporaries. He was dear to us because of his faults, they attested his common humanity and inspired love and devotion among others. The general appreciation of his works is ever developing, and his songs of love, of nature, of life, and of death, are in a continuous circle of divine melody."

Part Two.

Song—"Molly O." Mr. John Daley
Duet—"I'm wearin' a w." Misses Eason and Miles
Song—"Gae bring me." Mr. George Bowman
Song—"Come with banjo accompaniment." Mr. Pierce
Trio. Messrs. Daley, Craig and Pierce.

The various items on the programme well received; responses being called for in almost every case. The rendering of the songs and readings was ready, and the applause which the artists received was well merited.

At the close of the entertainment, the hall was cleared, and dancing was soon in full swing, under the door of the Scotch dances seemed to be much in favor, and the company adjourned to the smaller hall where the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily. Shortly after twelve o'clock the word was passed that supper was ready, and the company adjourned to the smaller hall where the music, young and old enjoyed themselves heartily.

The work of Mr. A. D. Smith and the committee who arranged and carried this affair to such a successful issue, is much to be commended. Good times like these do much to foster good fellowship and social unity in community, and if this has been accomplished even in a small degree, the time and labor given by the promoters of this anniversary celebration of the birth of Burns will not have been given in vain.

Reminiscence in Quincy.

The Minneapolis Times reports the death in that city, Jan. 16, of Elizabeth Brackett, aged 83 years, at her residence, 3200 Stevens avenue. She was born in Quincy, Mass. She leaves three sons and one daughter to mourn her death, viz: Mrs. C. S. Gold, H. C. Brackett, F. E. Brackett and George Brackett. The latter is a member of the Minneapolis police force.

Mrs. Brackett resided in the Toan house on Elm street, and Mrs. Rollo H. Newcomb (Miss Ella Brackett) is a granddaughter. The children mentioned above were born in Quincy, we believe.

The Mayor of Everett does not have everything his own way, for the aldermen take a hand and have rejected the nomination for the physical assistant of the fire department, city auditor, assessor, street commissioner, city solicitor and board of health.

The County Tax.

The movement of the County Commissioners to obtain authority to make a special loan of $125,000 for improvements, has led to an investigation of county expenditures and county taxes. For the ten years prior to 1892, the county tax was as follows:

Year.	Amount.

For the Patriot.

"Do you love the winter?" I asked my boy. On returning home from school; His cheeks were red from the winter's wind. And his answer was calm and cool. "Oh yes! I love the refreshing winter—I can skate and coast so nice. I go down the hill like Jack and Jill. And skin o'er the mirror of ice."

"Do you love the winter?" I asked the maid. As it flowed down the mountain side. And ploughs his way through snow and rain. Just earning the widow's mite; "I never grumble or fret," says he, "But submit to God's good will. Whether it's sunshine, snow or rain, I keep on up the hill."

"Who loves the winter?" you, merry bird, As you hop from limb to limb, Never uttering a single word. Is it the majestic elm, Bereft of foliage and leaves, Covered with snow and a coat of ice? "We love it," said the trees.

"Who loves the winter?" I said to the brook As it flowed down the mountain side. You could not see its sparkling rays. For the ice was far and wide. "How can I love the winter," the brook replied. "Pentured under this cover of cold; I cannot run as fast as I like, Should you give me bushes of gold?"

Does the rich man love the winter? In his mansion on the hill, What cares he for the storms that blow, His purse is always filled; Hunger and want passes not his way. The drifts of snow may come and go. He's blessed with summer days. Oh winter! to thee I am thy slave. You will follow me to my grave; Thy covered mantle I accept, Thy friends will follow me to my grave. We must not let the beautiful winter— It has pleasures to bestow; Although it seems most gloomy. Thy gentle snows of olden times, Thoughts of good old days run o'er. Cold winter we must endure, We cannot drive them from our door.

Spring and summer, autumn and winter, Bid them lie beneath thy smile, With every creature poor and needy Peace in darkest hours beguile; Never wound a soul that loves thee, Try not to cause it needless pain; Like a flower, we're blossoms again.

Does the rich man love the winter? In his mansion on the hill, What cares he for the storms that blow, His purse is always filled; Hunger and want passes not his way. The drifts of snow may come and go. He's blessed with summer days. Oh winter! to thee I am thy slave. You will follow me to my grave; Thy covered mantle I accept, Thy friends will follow me to my grave. We must not let the beautiful winter— It has pleasures to bestow; Although it seems most gloomy. Thy gentle snows of olden times, Thoughts of good old days run o'er. Cold winter we must endure, We cannot drive them from our door.

Spring and summer, autumn and winter, Bid them lie beneath thy smile, With every creature poor and needy Peace in darkest hours beguile; Never wound a soul that loves thee, Try not to cause it needless pain; Like a flower, we're blossoms again.

"Do you love the winter?" I asked my boy. On returning home from school; His cheeks were red from the winter's wind. And his answer was calm and cool. "Oh yes! I love the refreshing winter—I can skate and coast so nice. I go down the hill like Jack and Jill. And skin o'er the mirror of ice."

"Do you love the winter?" I asked the maid. As it flowed down the mountain side. And ploughs his way through snow and rain. Just earning the widow's mite; "I never grumble or fret," says he, "But submit to God's good will. Whether it's sunshine, snow or rain, I keep on up the hill."

"Who loves the winter?" you, merry bird, As you hop from limb to limb, Never uttering a single word. Is it the majestic elm, Bereft of foliage and leaves, Covered with snow and a coat of ice? "We love it," said the trees.

"Who loves the winter?" I said to the brook As it flowed down the mountain side. You could not see its sparkling rays. For the ice was far and wide. "How can I love the winter," the brook replied. "Pentured under this cover of cold; I cannot run as fast as I like, Should you give me bushes of gold?"

Marriages in Quincy.

Notwithstanding the hard times that have been the order of the day, the number of people that sought happiness in marriage was considerably more than previous years. Evidently many who had nothing else to do, got married, for the record of the matrimonial ventures of 1893, was an increase of 30 over the previous year. May the new year which they have entered be one of unalloyed happiness.

The largest number to be united on any one day was five which occurred on Jan. 1, June 7, and 14, and Oct. 28, while the longest interval between marriages was 10 days. The most popular month chosen by the misses to give their hearts in the keeping of their lovers was June, when 32 couples vowed to love and cherish each other as long as they lived.

The most popular month on other years is shown in the following summary:

Month	1893	1892	1891	1890	1889
January	22	8	16	9	13
February	10	12	10	12	10

The offices of City Clerk and Clerk of Council not being held by the same person, there was a little innovation, City Clerk Keith coming forward with the ballot box, and keeping it in his charge.

New Jury List.

The jury list for 1894 submitted at a previous meeting came up for acceptance, the following names were accepted:

The following were present: George W. Clapp, John Swithin, John L. Miller, William A. Rogers, Edmund Pope and Simeon Cammell.

Petitions.

James H. Webb made application for an actioneer's license, Daniel McGrath for a cense as a private detective, and the following for State Aid: John D. Cain, Martin Myers and William H. Cate. All referred.

Councilman Snow presented the petition of S. A. Fowler and others for the acceptance of Beach street from Wollaston Park. The Committee on Streets.

Councilman Baker presented a petition of Peter J. Donaher against the substitution of blue granite for red in the new high school building. To Committee on contracts.

Councilman Waterhouse presented the petition of J. D. Rollins for acceptance of a portion of Lincoln avenue at Wollaston. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Babcock presented the petition of John Swithin and others that he incandescent light at the junction of school and Granite streets be replaced by gas light. To Committee on Lights.

Councilman Federhen presented the petion of John F. Merrill and many others demonstrating against the action of the F. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. in granting exclusive privileges at Quincy depot to S. C. Cenniman & Son. To Committee on Ordinances.

Reports.

The Committee on Finance reported a substitute order for the $60,000 water order of 1893, which was given a second reading and referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

Chairman Whitman of the Water Commissioners desired that the premium should also be appropriated to the construction account.

The Committee on Fire Department reported an order for $6,500 for a hose house on Ward Four on a lot of land at the junction of Crescent and Willard streets. To committee on Finance.

The Committee on State Aid reported in favor of granting state aid of $6 per month to Samuel W. Spear, and leave to withdraw the petition of Ephriam F. Thayer for an increase of aid.

The Committee on Finance reported favorably on an order authorizing a loan of $5,000 in anticipation of taxes. Passed by unanimous vote.

New Orders.

Councilman Coxon offered an order that be Mayor, City Clerk and City Auditor be authorized to prepare and print the annual report of 1893. Adopted.

Councilman Federhen presented an order or an are light at "Four Corners," Quincy feck. To Committee on Lights.

Councilman Federhen offered an order requesting the Water Commissioners to rent a hydrant on Washington street in front of the Wollaston school. Adopted.

Councilman Federhen offered an order requesting the Chief Engineer to locate a re alarm box on Washington street at the corner of Wharf street. Adopted.

Councilman Rooney offered an order for the purchase of a lot at the junction of Villard and Crescent streets for the new post office house. To Committee on Finance.

The Public Shut Out.

The new high school building is coming in for a great deal of attention and late, and everybody seems to want to have a hand in it. There are many who would like to go into the building to inspect it, in its several stages of construction, but it is not allowed to by the builders, who have posted signs forbidding all persons except the inspectors and workmen from entering, and if it happens to pass the sign and enter, he is immediately apprehended by one of the men and asked to business. Sunday there was a watchman on duty to keep out intruders to the curiosity of the public is unexplained.

The builders have advanced no reason for refusing admittance, but the reason supposed is, that they are responsible for the building until accepted by the city and in order to protect themselves the order has been given, for it is well known that an evil disposed person could if he saw fit do a great deal of damage, and if such is the case the contractors can not be blamed much for their action.

In regard to the granite used in the building there seems to be two sides of the story, which accounts for the two positions.

The claim of one side is that the contract calls for Quincy granite, and as there is no Quincy granite the contractor can not, if he lives up to the contract, use the red granite which is quarried just over the Brainerd line.

There is still another party who claims that if the firm which has the contract for the granite is allowed to furnish the blue Quincy that they will not furnish the best quality, but will pick up what is known as "blue" granite and use it, which is the truth would not be representative Quincy granite.

The statement that the blue granite will not be of the best quality is, however, denied. There is no desire to furnish an inferior stock, but a representative Quincy stock, one which will stand architects and the outside public that Quincy blue granite can be used with good effect in brick building. The fact that the petition in favor of blue granite is signed by 65 granite firms of Quincy, shows that a majority of manufacturers in this city desire that it be used. The petition is strongly and pointedly worded, very largely signed, and a convincing document.

MAYOR HODGES in his inaugural address recommended a board of public works in place of one commissioner as at present. Boston has a board, and it is not entirely satisfactory, as a Boston representative to the Legislature introduced a bill this week abolishing the board of commissioners and establishing departments of public works, each to have a superintendent and deputy. All the powers now vested in the commissioners are conferred upon the departments of public works, and superintendents of departments shall receive annual salaries not exceeding $3,000, and deputy superintendents not exceeding $2,500.

WILL THE Quincy and Boston Street railway company give our people electric cars into the Blue Hills reservation. Cars should be allowed to enter these public woods, and a route from West Quincy across the city to Randolph, or from Houghton's pond would open up the reservation to people of Quincy, Boston and vicinity and in the summer be a rival attraction to Hough Neck. It is worthy of a thought gentlemen.

THE TRANSCRIPT has rather a queer idea of the new deal at the Quincy depot. It says: "Carriage drivers, who have been rather boisterous in their solicitation of business at the station in Quincy, have been notified that hereafter they are to keep away from the platforms of the station." This charge cannot be laid to the depot of the depot carriage drivers of late.

West Quincy Hose Lot.

The location of the new hose lot at West Quincy is causing considerable talk and very few are found who favor the Forester's lot. Another lot near the Forester's is now suggested, which would be much better, and that is the lot which faces on Crescent street between the old car house and Hall place. This is considerable larger than the other and it can be bought very cheaply. There is still another location which has not been publicly mentioned as yet, and that is the lot on the corner of Chapel and Cross streets owned by the Henry P. Doyle heirs. This lot contains 10,000 square feet and has a frontage on Chapel street of 150 feet and 90 feet on Cross street. Parties who are familiar with the property say that it can be purchased by the city for considerably less than the Forester's lot.

This lot is centrally located and would be in a slightly place, and on land which will never depreciate in value, and another advantage is that there is a cellar already there, the stone of which could be used in the new foundation.

But others say, why should the city buy land when the Willard school lot is larger than is required for school purpose, and the location much better?

A Mystery Solved.

Underaker Hall of Quincy has a bill of $80.00, burial expenses, against the estate of James Murphy, but Murphy is probably alive.

Boston reporters in investigating the mysterious disappearance of a Portuguese named Jose Francisco d' Oliveira have finally recognized the body buried at Mount Wollaston as his, from a figure of a woman tattooed on his arm.

The Portuguese turned up at Hotel Eastern on Causeway street, Boston, at 1.30 A. M. on Nov. 18, and, having that morning was found unconscious and died.

The Herald says: The peculiar feature of the case is that while he was too strongly under the influence of liquor to be able to register, he told the hotel clerk that his name was James Murphy, and the publication of this fact brought into Boston, from Quincy, Mr. Samuel Murphy and his sister, Mrs. Joseph S. Levenson. They have a brother named James who left home at St. George, N. B., about 10 years ago.

"The similarity of the names impressed them so strongly that they decided to view the body of the gas victim, and, after having seen, although not altogether certain about the matter, they believed that it was that of their wandering brother, and, on the strength of that belief, had it taken to Quincy and interred with what they considered proper services. So far there was no hitch.

"The dead man had in his pockets $120 and two watches, and these were taken possession of by Hon. Owen A. Galvin, as public administrator, while, in time, after he was turned over to the coroner, after the funeral expenses had been defrayed from it, but for the discovery that James Murphy was not James Murphy at all.

The discovery was brought about by the latter's sister, who found in the pockets of the deceased a card which had been given the Portuguese by one of the railroad agents from whom he purchased his ticket, and who brought it to the railroad office, thinking that her brother might have some baggage there.

"The agent recognized the card and a little key which Mrs. Levenson had found to belong to a miniature trunk which the Portuguese had left in that office.

"The two questions which suggested themselves as probable solutions of the mystery were: Were Mrs. Levenson and Samuel Murphy mistaken in their identification and had they buried the Portuguese as his brother or had James Murphy killed the Portuguese and robbed him of his effects, only to be punished by a higher power by having his life taken as a forfeit?

The Herald now thinks James Murphy would make a good central figure for a comic opera. He may be in the neighborhood of Hartford, Ct., where he was last heard from 18 months ago.

Too Many Architects.

Editors of the Patriot:

A petition is circulated to change the architecture of the new high school building, the anxiety of which is equalled only by its delusive hypocrisy, many of the signers having acknowledged being deceived.

The contractor for the granite for whose special benefit it is circulated after signing for granite two kinds of granite, the lower part blue and the upper part red, as required and as other contractors proposed, finds that he can buy a cheap quality of blue granite from various random sets and front piles for about one-quarter of the price estimated by competitors for the job, and that he can save $1200 by continuing this cheap granite where red is required.

The author of the petition says it is detrimental to the interests of all citizens if red granite is used and declares that, that it must be brought from afar, by falsely asserting in the face of proof, its abundance, that it cannot be obtained here.

He says that in this time of depression it should not be used, but he will save nearly $1000 from labor by picking waste pieces from various places, if it is not used.

He says it will be an argument against Quincy granite if blue is not substituted for red.

The so-called blue will never satisfy Quincy judges that it is a representative granite, although I am informed by one who ought to know that the warm effect desired, may be shown in time as it will be red enough soon at least in some portions.

The use of the newly-found Quincy red granite from the very homestead of John Adams adds much to the industry of the city by supplying an existing demand for red granite which cannot possibly be met by blue or white Quincy granite.

Instead of being detrimental as he says, it is largely used instead of Maine, New Brunswick and Scotch red granite and is finding a market independently, thereby adding to the fame of Quincy granite.

The use of the Quincy granite, and especially where a municipality is to give up its right of distinct home rule and be absorbed by a large city, the feeling of sentiment for old customs and associations is so strong that it is a pity to blind one to the advantage to be gained from the movement.

"As far as sentiment goes I might be considered one of that class, but laying that aside I have only lately become a convert to this idea, as I have been somewhat opposed to any movement of this kind, more perhaps on the grounds of sentiment than anything else.

He is in all cases where a town or city is to change its form of government, and especially where a municipality is to give up its right of distinct home rule and be absorbed by a large city, the feeling of sentiment for old customs and associations is so strong that it is a pity to blind one to the advantage to be gained from the movement.

In the first place one board of officers should conduct the affairs of greater Boston, where there are many now. This would be economy.

The second thing to be done would be to have the matter managed better under one head. So far as Quincy would be concerned we would get better results from the money paid into the general treasury as taxes, and especially so in connection with the transportation of the police and water departments, schools and municipal lighting."

Invited Guests Come Loaded.

The pastor and his wife of the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church, last night, visited the congregation, except the young people, to spend Wednesday evening socially at the parsonage. The young people had been treated to a similar visit some weeks ago. When the people came on Wednesday evening by common consent, they had decided to bring the earth with them. They rolled it in in barrels, they carried it in bundles and packages until the parsonage was literally buried under it. A dance followed, Rossi's orchestra furnished music, and John Walsh was floor director. Refreshments were served during the evening.

St. John's Y. P. L. Society.

The recently elected officers of St. John's Young People's Literary Society have been publicly installed Monday evening at Doyle's hall. An entertainment followed with this programme:

The Perfect Eye

is very rare.

Some youthful eyes are practically flawless, but even these change with passing years, and require glasses at 45. No two people's eyes are exactly alike, and in very many cases there is a marked difference in the eyes of the same person.

The fact that one sees well without glasses is no convincing proof that he does not need them. It may be that he has a natural vision which is not yet so far gone as to require glasses, or he may be so nearsighted that he can only see objects near him, and he will not wear glasses unless you need them. If you have never worn glasses, we will tell you whether you need them or not. We will tell you whether you are suited to your eyes. Your interests are ours.

Yacht Club Annual.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Yacht Club was held Saturday evening at the West Quincy Hotel, and was largely attended. Commodore Faxon presided and the first business of the evening was the reports of the treasurer and executive committee, both of which were accepted.

Then came the election of officers. A motion was passed that an informal ballot be taken for Commodore, Messrs. Blackman, Whitman and Newcomb being appointed as tellers.

The result of the first ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes, 53
Necessary for choice, 27
Henry M. Faxon, 25
W. H. Shaw, 25
Scattering, 8

Secretary Pfaffmann said that while he was not authorized to state that Mr. Shaw would not take the office, Mr. Shaw had stated that he would not take it under any consideration.

A formal ballot was then taken with the following result:

Whole number of votes, 54
Necessary for choice, 28
Henry M. Faxon, 25
W. H. Shaw, 25
Scattering, 4

Mr. Faxon was declared elected, the vote being unanimous.

The officers elected were as follows: Vice Commodore, W. H. Shaw. Treasurer, George Carey. Executive Committee, W. P. Barker, H. R. Drinkwater, W. P. Whitman, H. L. Rice.

Hon. Committee, F. B. Rice, W. C. Harrison, A. J. Shaw, James S. Whiting, W. B. Wilson, J. T. Cavanaugh, J. S. Murray.

Mr. H. H. Stude was elected an honorary member of the club.

A committee consisting of T. C. Cavanaugh, W. H. Shaw and C. F. Colby was appointed to draft and submit resolutions on the death of their late valuable member, P. G. Gahan.

The next business under consideration was action on a proposed amendment to the constitution in relation to the sailing measurement.

This caused considerable debate and a few moments motions and amendments were made with lightning rapidity.

The club finally voted 19 to 13 not to adopt the proposed amendment, it requiring a two-thirds vote to amend.

At their next meeting, to be held on Monday evening, the club will consider, after which upon motion of A. J. Shaw it was voted to strike out the first part of the proposed amendment, those voting for the motion evidently not clearly understanding what they were voting on.

The second part of the amendment, which was: "The maximum crew allowed must be aboard and amidships when a yacht is measured" was adopted.

This leaves the sailing measurement the same as last year.

New City Officials.

The newly appointed city officials met Monday at City Hall, the retiring officials turning over their books and papers.

The transfers were all made quickly and one unfamiliar with the city officials would not know that anything unusual had taken place.

At the Central Fire station the transfer took place at noon. Chief Ripley accompanied by the new Chief Engineer, Peter J. Williams, drove to the station just before 1 o'clock when Mr. Williams was introduced to the department.

Ripley as his successor. Mr. Ripley thanked the members of the department for the prompt manner in which they had responded to the calls made upon them while he was the chief engineer, and hoped that the pleasant ties of friendship that had always existed would be continued. The keys and property of the department were then turned over and the fire department is under the charge of Chief Engineer Williams.

Mayor Hodges on Annexation.

The Sunday Globe asked the suburban Mayor what he thought of the question, "Should Boston be Enlarged by Annexation?" Mayor Hodges responded as follows:

"I am rather inclined to believe that Quincy would be benefited by annexation to Boston. I have only lately become a convert to this idea, as I have been somewhat opposed to any movement of this kind, more perhaps on the grounds of sentiment than anything else.

He is in all cases where a town or city is to change its form of government, and especially where a municipality is to give up its right of distinct home rule and be absorbed by a large city, the feeling of sentiment for old customs and associations is so strong that it is a pity to blind one to the advantage to be gained from the movement.

In the first place one board of officers should conduct the affairs of greater Boston, where there are many now. This would be economy.

The second thing to be done would be to have the matter managed better under one head. So far as Quincy would be concerned we would get better results from the money paid into the general treasury as taxes, and especially so in connection with the transportation of the police and water departments, schools and municipal lighting."

The Carriage Drivers.

The Committee on Ordinance of the City Council, to whom the petition for the regulation of the carriage drivers at the Quincy depot was referred, will probably give a public hearing on the subject.

As the railroad has entered into a contract with Messrs. Pennington & Son, and papers in the matter have been passed, it is hard to see what effect any action the City Council might take would have on the railroad. The same method that has been pursued in the case of the horse-drawn carriages, and although in nearly every case the same trouble as we are having in Quincy has resulted, the railroad has in the end come out at the top.

Tractically, the City Council can do little to pass a resolution which would doubtless find a resting place in the railroad waste basket.

Norfolk Court Should Kick.

A Dedham correspondent of the Westmouth Gazette says:

"There is a feeling in this section that the city of Boston is trying to perpetrate a grab bag on the city of Dedham. The towns of Brookline, Dedham, Milton and Hyde Park and the city of Quincy, to and that if it succeeds in carrying out its scheme of swallowing all the wealthy towns of the county, it will work great injury to the remaining towns of the county. The bill of Representative Cook of Boston now before the Great and General Court is the entering wedge. As a matter of self-preservation the measure ought to be opposed by every representative and senator from Norfolk county."

—Enough spiders' webs to go around the world would weigh one-half pound.

Young Men's Congress.

The Quincy Young Men's Congress held its eighth regular meeting Tuesday evening.

A national lecture was introduced commencing the administration for its action in regard to the Hawaiian Islands and was referred to Committee on Foreign Relations.

The applications for membership were considered.

Reports.

The Committee on Police reported a municipal bill for an act to compel riders to dismount when they are riding on a bicycle with a gong, horn or bell, and at night a lantern, ought to pass. Assigned to Congressman Holden and placed in the orders of the day for second reading.

Orders of Day.

The municipal bill to protect the lives of taken upon freight trains was taken up, but laid on table.

A municipal bill for the improvement of Independence avenue was rejected.

The municipal bill relative to the purchase of gas and electric plants was recommitted.

The following act to amend the city charter of Quincy may be of interest. Section 1 is hereby amended:

Section 1. The first 347 of the acts of the year 1888 is given in full as to read as follows: The members of the City Council shall consist of councilmen at large and councilmen from wards, and shall be elected annually as follows: Nine councilmen at large shall be elected by and from the qualified voters of the city voting in their respective wards; and three councilmen from wards shall be elected by and from the qualified voters of each ward; but no voter shall vote for more than six councilmen at large on one ballot, nor more than two councilmen from wards on one ballot. The councilmen shall hold office for the municipal year beginning with the first Monday in January following their election and until a majority of the succeeding council shall be elected and qualified. They shall receive no compensation for their services.

The bill will come up at the next meeting Feb. 13.

The Road to Yesterday.
Will some wise man who has journeyed
Over land and over sea
To the countries where the rainbow
And the glorious sunsets lie,
Kindly tell a little stranger
Who has oddly lost his way,
Where the road that he must travel
To return to Yesterday.

For, you see, she's unfamiliar
With Today, and cannot read What its strange, mysterious signposts Tell of ways and where they lead,
And her heart upturns to Yesterday
Though she did not mean to stay
When she felt asleep last evening
And abandoned Yesterday.

For she left too late neglected
That she really should have done;
And she fears she's lost some favor
That she fairly might have won.
So she'd like to turn her backward
To retrieve them if she may.
Will not some one kindly tell her Where's the road to Yesterday?

- St. Nicholas.

THE DEACON'S WIFE.
Mrs. Bradley had come up to Berkshire with her husband to attend the annual conference of their church. While she rested in her room after the morning session she heard the door open and saw two men enter. One of them watched her mechanically as she folded and placed them in the basket.

"Your wife is a marvel to me, accomplishing all she does," Mrs. Bradley said as she watched her; "but she looks worn;
she will break some day suddenly, I fear." And then, that dreadful thought it would make a wonderful difference in this house to have her busy hands and feet still forever, wouldn't it?"

The deacon turned and looked at Mrs.
Bradley half wildly, as if, with a thing he never crossed his mind. Then he got up and strode over to the line just as his wife was about to lift the heavy basket of clothes, and taking it from her carried it into the back room.

When Deacon Bates had anything special on his mind he was wont to betake himself to the orchard. He went there now and sat down on a low gnarled limb, and, leaning his head against a tree, he tried to think up some new sermon topic. Mrs. Bradley had just spoken.
They nestled him. He told himself she young to mind her own business. But after all he was himself to blame. By his own conduct he had made his wife a woman who was too humiliated. He had prided himself upon being kind to animals and considerate toward help.

Was it possible he had been cruel to his own wife? It must look so, or a good thing like Mrs. Bradley would not have spoken as she did.

The deacon was a good man. He was not going to spare himself now that his eyes were getting well open. He went back over the year ending July first, and tried to find out where he had been wrong. He remembered that "Cyril" was bright and bright. She used to talk and laugh and then, what had changed her into the silent woman he now was? "If her hands and feet should be still forever, what a disaster!" And then, that dreadful thought about farmers' wives becoming lame. And now that he thought of it he never went anywhere, except to church, and not always there, because often she was too tired. How often he used to see her watched the treadmill round of skimming milk, churning, baking, dressing poultry, washing, ironing, cooking and washing dishes, beginning at sunrise and not by any means concluded at sunset.

One evening, as Mrs. Bates was wondering why she had just gone out buying more land and more cows and employing more men, so adding to her labor, while she had the one she used to have when the farm was small.

The truth was, the love of money had taken possession of him, and he had sacrificed everything. He had not even hinted to his wife that she must spare herself, and he had forgotten to speak words of comfort to her. He had been so busy that he had been mean and selfish and grasping, he still loved the wife of his youth. What would all the money and land he had scraped together be to him when he had laid her in the old burying ground? The sturdy farmer as he sat there thinking these sharp truths in the gathering shadows, realized for a moment
the desolation of going on without her.

The darkness had settled down when Deacon Bates got up and went into the house. He had gone over everything, had reconstructed affairs on a new basis and made several plans.

It was not like Deacon Bates to say much about his private troubles, but he proceeded to put in practice as rapidly as possible. There was no light in the sitting-room when he entered but that of the moon which streamed in at the long window. He thought the room was empty till he caught sight of his wife asleep in her chair. Her mild, pale face upturned in the white light sent a pang through the heart of the self-convinced man. He went over to her and laying his hand on her head said, "My dear, I have been thinking these sharp truths in the gathering shadows, realized for a moment
the desolation of going on without her."

"Mrs. Bradley, I should like to know-would you mind telling me-what it was Daniel said that day up to Berkshire?"
"Yes, he did, and I quite agree with him."

It was an hour later, when Mrs. Bradley sat alone on the front piazza, that Deacon Bates, his choral done, came and sat on the upper step. He was a man of many shrewd intelligence, who read his weekly religious paper from end to end, and liked occasionally to discuss an article or a doctrine with a bright woman like Mrs. Bradley.

His wife was still busy in the kitchen,
as the rattling of milk pans occasionally testified. Mrs. Bradley's thoughts followed the tired worker; her kind heart longed to make the weary life of this woman different. If only somebody would speak a few plain words to her husband, she reflected, and get his eyes opened.

"Why not do that yourself?" said her inner voice. She shrank from that, though, telling her conscience that perhaps she would sometime if she got a good opportunity.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Bates, "the farmer has the best of it every time; it's a healthy, independent sort of life, and he doesn't have to work like a slave the year round. In the winter he can get time to tinker at odd jobs and do a slight amount of reading besides if he so disposed."

Then Mrs. Bradley could not resist saying:
"And the farmers' wives? They, too, have a good rest in the winter-fairly idle, aren't they?"

"Oh, no, there's plenty of work for them, it isn't hard. In the fall, after the berries are put up, comes the drying of apples and pumpkins. Then there's the sausage making and lard and tallow to try out.
When all that done there's a lot of mending and darning and patching, and the boys' and the girls' Sunday coats.
Then it takes a lot of cooking to keep three or four healthy appetites going, and we don't have any help in the winter."

His tone could scarcely be kept ignoration from her tones as she replied:
"Is it possible that all this is added to the work of the summer? I do not wonder that according to statistics a large number of the women in the country in insane asylums are farmers' wives. It is a dreary life, making a woman into a perfect drudge."

"Well, I don't know," the farmer answered, musingly, "we must earn our bread by the sweat of our brow. I find the Bible says that work's good for us. I guess it is, and a wise provision of Providence. I don't know it's any worse for women than it is for men."

But it seemed to Mrs. Bradley that the farmer's wife was less desirable than that of her husband. According to your own account she has less leisure, and then he seems to have more variety in his work, and it is relieved by small pleasures. In summer work is mostly out of doors, then he jumps into his wagon and is off to town two or three times a week on errands; and his neighbor often happens along and leans on the fence and talks.

The most curious thing about this common green lizard is the way in which he comes into the world. His mother lays an egg, sometimes a number of eggs, and considers her parental duties done. He pays no attention to it. The egg soon hatches, and the young lizard is out in the world.

town, and as Mrs. Bradley had the day before said she wished to match some worsted, he took her along, taking occasion to say as they were well on their way:
"I'm much obliged to you, Mrs. Bradley, for giving me a hint about my wife last night. I've been blind and dumb as an old bat. 'Nough said. Things 'll be different. Now I want to ask another favor. I wish you'd pick out a dress for my wife-a nice one, that'll do for her.
I'm going to take her out west to see her sister when the crops are all in. She don't know a word about it yet."

Mrs. Bradley was delighted; she would be glad to help. What would he like?
"Oh, you must settle that, something of ladylike black, I guess; and get some of that soft white stuff, such as you wear, to go round her neck, and some ribbon and all the trimmings."

A more dazed woman than Mrs. Bates could not be found, when her husband that night, after every one else had gone to bed, presented her with a roll of handsome black cashmere.

"Fahrendrich," she said, you must have it made up like Mrs. Bradley's, with some ribbons a dash in the wind."

"What's the matter with you, Daniel?"
his wife asked, anxiously. "Whatever does all this mean?"

"It means, little woman, that I've been an old brute. I've let you slave your neck to death with not a mite of fun thrown in. Now it's going to be stopped.
I'm going to take care of you the rest of the day. What would you say now to taking a trip out west next month to see your sister Hannah?"

It was too much. Mrs. Bates could only cry and cry as if she would never stop, while her husband murmured as he stroked her hair:
"Women are curious. I looked for you to laugh instead of cry, Cluthy." - Mrs. C.
M. Livingston.

The Quincy Patriot.

SATURDAY, FEB. 17, 1894.

Blizzard in Quincy.

On Monday night one of the most fierce and disagreeable northeast storms that has visited our city this winter put in an appearance.

At daybreak the roads were almost impassable, the electric cars were stopped and railroad trains were seriously delayed.

When local trains were delayed the storm was to be of large proportions, and these were facts. Both outward and inward trains were behind time, and some of the inward over an hour. Some of them were run with two engines and a flat car snow plough in front, and then arrived with a struggle.

The first mail from Boston arrived practically on time, but the New York mail did not arrive until afternoon.

The telegraph people reported but little trouble, nearly all of their lines being in working order.

Several of the grocers in the Centre did not send out their teams for orders.

Washington street near the residence of John R. Graham always seems to offer inducements to snow storms to concentrate in large drifts, and Monday night was no exception, as the drift there was nearly as large as two years ago.

Elsewhere street near where it enters Union street was also badly drifted.

On South street in some places the drifts were eight or ten feet deep.

The Boston road had drifts of four or five feet or more.

Most of the streets were impassable and were practically deserted today.

Chief of Police Hayden started out to drive to the Centre but had gone but a short distance before he ran into a huge snow drift and he was obliged to put up his horse and walk up.

The street railway made humane efforts to keep its tracks clear but the high wind lifts them up about as fast as they were ploughed out.

The big electric snow plough left the Square at 7 o'clock Tuesday night for North Weymouth, and as it had to knock down many drifts it did not return to Quincy until 5.30 the next morning.

In many places where the sidewalks were drifted the snow plough was unable to go through and went most anywhere.

Many social gatherings to have been held Tuesday evening were postponed on account of the storm.

West Quincy people had a chance Tuesday to see how things would be without the electric.

Very little damage was done to the telephone wires by the storm.

The storm put a stop to what little work there was in the stone quarries.

The storm must have made the Vermonters who were in the city think of home.

Tuesday night's Globe said everything in Quincy had stopped except the old town clock.

The letter carriers had a hard time, but they were about just the same delivering their messages of love, joy and sorrow.

The night policemen must have realized that the life of a policeman is not always a happy one.

The great storm raised havoc with Wollaston stores. Early in the morning they were nearly impassable, all of the grocery stores sending out their men on foot for orders.

Hancock street was blocked and an electric was stalled at Elm avenue. But few teams attempted to reach Boston over that thoroughfare, Mr. A. Boynton did not start any of his teams for Boston. All of Wollaston, north of Beale street, was not broken out until Wednesday morning to the indignation of the citizens.

The hills were plowed Tuesday forenoon.

A Welcome Visitor.

One day last week, when very busy putting up one of Cranston's fine book and newspaper presses, in place of the old Acme which had done us good service for many years, Mr. Frank Locke of Gloucester called to see us. He is an old friend of ours, and when boys we used to carry the PATRIOT for its publishers, Messrs. Thayer & White. He went over the Point and Neck route, while the writer took the centre, south and west routes. We often met in 1851 and '52 in the PATRIOT office, which occupied two small rooms on the second floor of the same building it is now published in. As long as life last, those boyhood days will never be forgotten.

Mr. Locke visited Quincy to celebrate with others, Mr. Edward Damon's birthday, who was 84 on the 10th instant. Mr. Damon is a small old gentleman who is widely known and respected, and resides with his daughter, Mrs. Joseph W. Lombard. He unfortunately broke one of his limbs many years since, which troubles him some in getting about, still in good weather we occasionally met him on the street.

The Cup Defender.

The Transcript says the Pilgrim, the yacht built by a Boston syndicate for the defence of the America cup and which was sold to another syndicate to be made into a passenger steamer for use in Boston harbor, has again been sold and will be made into a steam yacht. The name of the yachtman making the purchase is just now a secret, but the sale is a certainty and plans for the changes to be made are already in hand by Messrs. Stevens & Bienny, the boat's designers. The Pilgrim, with her fin off, is now hauled out at Quincy Point, and the changes in hull and the new cabin fittings will be made there by James McIntyre.

The sketches now in the owner's hands shows a deck house of full height, covering the boiler space, and having galley and dining saloon forward. This house is about thirty feet long. Forward of it is a pilot house, and aft is a half-height house twenty feet long, covering engine room and cabin. The cabin will be of good size and have two staterooms. The yacht, as originally designed, was 120 feet over all, twenty-three feet beam, and five feet draft of hull, without her gun. These dimensions will not be changed materially. The yacht will be driven by twin screws, and will be schooner rigged.

Blue Hill Predictions.

Observer Clayton at the Blue Hill observatory made the following predictions Friday afternoon for the ensuing week:

The greatest probability of rain or snow will be during the evening 21 hours, between Sunday noon and Monday morning, and on Wednesday. Warmest day Saturday and Sunday. Lowest temperature Saturday morning.

Saturday—Fair weather; rising temperature.

Sunday—Warmer; increasing cloudiness. Monday—Snow or rain, followed by clear and colder.

Tuesday—Fair and colder.

Wednesday—Rain or snow; warmer.

Thursday—Fair.

Friday—Fair and warmer.

Good Time to Borrow.

The city of Springfield Tuesday borrowed $300,000 from the city of Quincy in anticipation of taxes for three per cent, and a bonus of $10 from the bidders. There were eighteen bids in all. The city pays no commission and the loan is secured at what is considered the lowest rate of interest for nine months' time known in the State.

—Capt. Ebenezer Sampson Griffin of Plymouth died Monday aged 79 years.

CITY BRIEFS.

Business at the District court is rather light.

The City Council will meet again on Monday evening.

Chief Engineer Williams is reported as being comfortable.

T. Dexter Pierce has been given charge of the fountain in the square.

The prospects are that sleighing parties will be in order for the next week.

Rev. Dr. George W. Cutter of Newport will preach in the First church tomorrow.

Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth has been elected a member of the society of Colonial Wars.

The Commissioner has had his hands full this week keeping the sidewalks and streets clear.

M. J. Ennis of this city is reported to have bought a house on Quincy street, Brockton.

"Quincyana" is a new word coined by the Quinians in speaking of the methods of Josiah Quincy.

There is a new clerk at the Quincy post office, Peter Talbot taking the place of Joseph Alden.

Thomas D. Driscoll of this city was on Thursday granted a certificate as a registered pharmacist.

Councilman C. F. Adams, 2d, was on Tuesday elected vice commodore of the Eastern Yacht club.

The Firemen's Relief Association will hold its annual meeting at City Hall this Saturday evening.

The no-school signal of the Weymouth fire alarm was plainly heard in this city Wednesday morning.

Among the stock sales Wednesday was $5,000 City of Quincy, 4's, 1916, gold, which sold at the rate of 105 1/4.

One of the large show windows in Durgin's pharmacy was smashed Monday night by having a sign blown through it.

Mr. Herbert F. Nye of this city has been engaged by the Universalist Society at North Weymouth, as chorister.

Mr. A. F. Delano of Wollaston gave a very interesting Chalk Talk to the boys at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Monday evening.

Manet Lodge, I. O. O. F., M. U., are arranging for a dramatic entertainment at Hancock hall on the evening of Fast day.

The West Quincy street cars are only running as far as Cross street. The Neponset line was opened Friday morning.

A. L. Flint of Weymouth is doing the interior painting of Henry E. Harkwick's new residence. Some artistic work is being done.

Charles Francis Adams has evidently removed from the city as his "late residence" on Goffe street is advertised for sale.

The prizes at the Granite City Whist Club Wednesday evening were taken by E. W. Henry Bass and Mrs. George W. Bass.

Every new subscriber to the telephone exchange is now fitted with a metallic ring, as the company refuses to put in any more ground circuits.

It was fortunate that the Vermont granite men chose Monday to inspect the quarries of this city for if they had waited they would not have had so good a day.

Mr. Johnson has arranged an unusually pleasing programme for his concert the 28th, and every lover of music should not fail to hear his phenomenal tenor voice.

Many are complaining that their streets have not been broken out. Commissioner Eaton could not do them all at once and wisely gave his first attention to the principal streets.

A petition is being circulated to be presented to the legislature asking that the city charter be amended so that hereafter all public buildings shall be erected by the city and not by contract.

The committee on mercantile affairs of the Legislature, of which Senator Merrill is chairman, has one of the most difficult problems of the times, the matter of placing the electrical wires under ground.

The Guild of the Great Teacher will hold a public meeting in the chapel Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Rev. Charles T. Billings of Hingham will speak on the "Leadership of Christ." All are welcome.

Postmaster Adams keeps right on improving the mail service, although his term has expired and he is liable to be removed any day. A new mail arrives from Boston at 2 P. M., and another coach from Boston at 2.30 P. M.

The Wholesale Granite Dealers Association of Boston, gave a complimentary banquet to the Barre granite manufacturers at the Tremont House, Boston, Tuesday evening. President Miller of the Quincy Association was among the guests and speakers.

Quincy now has eight mail coaches each day to and from Boston. Lowell and Worcester are the only Massachusetts cities which have more. Four, however, have the same number—Brockton, Fitchburg, Newton and Salem. On Sundays Quincy has two each way.

City Clerk Keith attended the bi-monthly meeting Thursday of the City Clerks' Association of Massachusetts, at Young's hotel. The matters discussed were "Laws relative to elections," and Registration of births, marriages and deaths. The annual banquet was served after the business meeting.

While at work at the fire Monday two firemen were injured. E. H. Bishop of the Hook and Ladder slipped on an icy ladder and fell to the ground severely injuring his ankle. Michael J. Barry, assistant fireman was also injured by being kicked by one of the horses.

Chief of Police Hayden had a general cleaning out of the lockup Sunday. This was necessary because of the large number of small animals that had made the cells their headquarters for the winter. Chief Hayden succeeded in exterminating them by the use of sulphur.

Quite a good sized audience assembled at the Universalist vestry Wednesday, notwithstanding the vast quantity of snow, and enjoyed an excellent entertainment by home talent. The readings, the singing, and bar and harmonica playing were greatly appreciated, and received numerous applause.

Mr. Charles Newcomb, one of the well known citizens of this city, died at his home on Washington street, Thursday afternoon, after a brief illness. Mr. Newcomb was a ship carpenter by trade but of late years has not been engaged in any active business. He was 73 years of age and leaves a widow and an adopted daughter.

Last Wednesday evening thirty of the schoolmates and friends of George Thomas, surprised her at her home 85 Granite street and presented her with a gold ring and a beautiful box of cut flowers. The evening was pleasantly passed with singing, games and music. Refreshments were served during the evening. The party kept up until a late hour all having a good time.

Quite a delegation of Quincy young ladies are attending the second annual state convention of the Young Women's Christian Association at Lowell this week. The convention opened Friday afternoon and closes Sunday evening. The program contains the names of a number of the most prominent Christian women in the country. Special rates were granted on the roads, and all delegates were entertained free.

The regatta committee of the Quincy Yacht club announces the following fixtures for 1894:

Saturday June 9, 3 o'clock,—club race.

Wednesday August 25, 3 o'clock,—club race.

A number of new applications for membership have been received this year.

WOLLASTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Sherman and Miss Marion Sherman are at Wollaston, Ga., where they will remain until spring.

Grand Protector Fairbank and suite of Cambridge visited Wollaston Lodge, K. & L. of W. Wollaston on Tuesday evening and were royally entertained.

Several of the classes of young people connected with the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school have generously given six tables to the City Hospital.

One hundred shares Wollaston Land Co.'s stock were sold Wednesday at $1.50 per share and 100 at $1.37.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Baptist church, February 25, at three o'clock.

Mr. O. C. Colton, Secretary of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association will lead the prayer meeting of the League at the Methodist church next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

The annual business meeting of the Unitarian Sunday School was held last week Friday evening in the vestry of the church. The report of the secretary, Miss Elia, showed that there had been 42 sessions the past year with a total attendance of 4344, and an average attendance of 103.

The highest attendance being 130 on Nov. 5 and the lowest 64 on March 12. Many of the members were present Sunday.

Walter M. Baker was present Sunday and Master Percy A. Hull every Sunday excepting one. Number of scholars, 181 and number of classes 14. The secretary in closing the report paid a touching tribute to two members who have died the past year, Miss Gertrude Lull and Mr. Farrington McIntire. These officers were elected: Superintendent, Mr. Frank A. Page; assistant super, Mr. W. E. Simmons; secretary and treasurer, Miss Mary F. L. Curran; and Mr. C. E. Elia; assistant librarian, Mr. George E. Elia; assistant librarian, Mr. Lewis Elia.

The first change in the Police department took place Sunday night when James Beahm was placed on the Wollaston beat in place of Henry Dawson.

It seems that Dawson was not a permanent man but a special who was put on when Paul Hanson was called to the Central station as night keeper. This being the case there were two vacancies in the permanent force which will have to be filled from the civil service list.

Wollaston Unitarian Church. Rev. James E. Bagley, pastor. Morning service at 10.45. Preaching by the pastor. Subject: "The Word made flesh." Sunday School at 12 M.

M. E. Church, Wollaston. Rev. Mr. Stoddard of the Presbyterian church, South Quincy, will exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Wilder of the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday morning. In the evening Mr. Wilder will continue the series of doctrinal discourses by preaching on "The Personality of the Holy Spirit."

Dr. Samuel M. Donovan, city physician, is dangerously ill at his home on Gay street, and is not expected to recover.

Doble's contest for a barrel, half barrel and bag of flour, has not yet taken a decision. The bag will be awarded to the one taking it from his store before next Monday evening the largest number of his advertisements printed in the DAILY LEDGER. Get the bag and the barrel, too, if you can.

Granite Manufacturers. Nearly 300 members of the New England Granite Manufacturers' Association braved the storm Tuesday and attended the third annual convention held in Wesleyan hall, Boston. There were large delegations from all the granite centers, particularly Quincy, Barre, Concord and Westley.

The following officers were elected: President—J. Q. A. Field of Quincy. Vice-Presidents—Thomas Ward of Quincy, N. H.; George C. Mackie of Barre, Vt.; A. G. Crumb of Natick, William Booth of New London, C. B. Canfield of New York.

Treasurer—W. S. White of Rockland, Maine. Executive Committee—J. F. Bodwell of Hallowell, George A. Wagg of Portland, J. G. Batterson of Concord, Alexander Gordon of Barre, T. W. Egan of Montpelier, S. W. Hall of Boston, D. W. S. Rogers of Worcester, Henry Murray of Boston, W. H. Mitchell of Quincy, John L. Miller of Quincy, Charles S. Rogers of Rockport, A. T. Farnum, of Providence, C. P. Chapman of Westley, Charles F. of New London, C. S. Davis of Natick.

The secretary will be elected by the executive committee, and Mr. F. L. Badger of this city, who has discharged the onerous duties very efficiently, will doubtless be the choice.

The most important issue introduced was a resolution to the effect that members of the association should not buy or sell granite to dealers not members of the association. It is reported to have caused a serious wrangle. The president finally ruled it out of order.

The wage question did not play as important a part as at previous meetings as an agreement is in force which is satisfactory.

Death of John Russell. Mr. John Russell, one of our well known and highly respected citizens died at his home on South Street Tuesday night of heart trouble, at the age of 71 years.

Mr. Russell fell ill for a long time and throughout he bore his sufferings with Christian like patience and fortitude.

Mr. Russell was born in Dunmaway, County Cork, Ireland, and came to this country in 1848, when he was a young man. He was a blacksmith by trade, but for the war he was employed in the construction of many railroads throughout the South.

For many years Mr. Russell was employed as blacksmith and tool sharpener for the granite firm of McGrath Brothers, and he was credited with being the quickest tool sharpener in this city. He was a prominent member of the Bismarck Union.

The doctor was his kind and loving father and an affectionate husband and his death will be sorely regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. He leaves a widow, two sons and one daughter.

SPEAKING OF THE IMPROVEMENT OF THE Breiler estate forcibly reminds us that a portion of it should be thrown into the street. It has long been a bad corner, and particularly so since the street railway was built. It is the congested portion of both sides at this point and there never would be as good a time as now, before there are large blocks erected thereon. In fact, the lines of Hancock street from School street to Adams street should be relocated and the street widened generally. In points it is narrow and crooked, while in the Square it is almost too wide.

The quantities of snow that fell this week and the big snow drifts did not prevent a large number from visiting the show rooms of C. W. Guy and inspecting his unsurpassed line of home furnishings.

A bill has been reported to the Boston aldermen by the finance committee ordering the paying $25,000 for an investigation of the water supply of Boston and suburbs.

The Bunker Hill Monument association petitioned the legislature on Thursday for a $20,000 monument to Gen. Joseph Warren.

The schooner Minnie Rowan wrecked at Scituate with her cargo, but a total loss.

—Rev. Amos Webster of Hyde Park died on Wednesday aged 77 years.

ATLANTIC.

The storms this week have interfered with work on Dugan's new block near the Atlantic depot.

The reading club of the Atlantic Epworth league will meet with Mr. Chester Hammond, Billings street, this evening at 7.30 prompt. All members are earnestly requested to be present, and are at liberty to bring their friends. An enjoyable time is looked for, as the surprise most graciously entertained by Miss Hammond, the hostess, the last time they met with her, and all anticipate a pleasant evening this time.

Masque Party. Despite the almost impassable condition of the streets, Masque party, Tuesday evening, was the scene of the long-looked-for Valentine masque party Tuesday evening, and it was a most decided success.

The scene in the hall when the march began, was bright, animated and of course a perfect kaleidoscope of colors. There were the usual groups of comic costumes, and a roar of laughter was kept up at the antics of some of these beauties. Some of the costumes were both rich and striking.

The report of the secretary, Miss Elia, showed that there had been 42 sessions the past year with a total attendance of 4344, and an average attendance of 103.

The highest attendance being 130 on Nov. 5 and the lowest 64 on March 12. Many of the members were present Sunday.

MILTON.

The Ladies' sewing circle of the Congregational church held an experience meeting at the residence of Mrs. A. A. Brackett this week. Each of the twenty-nine ladies contributed a dollar and told in poetry how they earned it. Some of the productions were very unique.

The warrant for the annual town meeting in March has been issued. It is a lengthy document containing 92 articles.

A party of young people went on a sleigh party Thursday evening to West Newton and Brighton, having a supper and dance at the latter place.

Delegates from the Baptist church attended the South Baptist Sunday School convention at Randolph Wednesday.

Milton has its share of the big snow drifts.

A fire alarm tapper has been put into the police station.

Granite Men Entertain.

The Barre, Vermont, Granite Manufacturers' Association were the guests of the Quincy Association on Monday, and a glorious day the visitors had to inspect the principal industry, and there is no doubt but they returned home thoroughly convinced that Quincy has some good granite quarries.

The visitors, something like seventy in number, left Barre Sunday at midnight on a special train, which arrived in Boston at 8:10 Monday morning, and were met by a committee from the Quincy Association consisting of President John L. Miller, Secretary Fred L. Badger, A. M. Dean, Thomas F. Burke, Frederick L. Jones, Gordon McKenzie, William T. Shea, Henry McGrath, John Cashman and William Turner.

The first thing was breakfast which was partaken of at the Quincy house and at Young's. The party then came to this taking the 10:15 train from Boston.

Arriving in Quincy the guests were escorted to the rooms of the Quincy Association in Durgin & Merrill's block, where their grips were left. A stop of about ten minutes was made here during which time Quincy's handsome boat sleighs Vigilant, Maid of Athens, City of Boston and Puritan, each of which were drawn by six handom horses, arrived.

The trip of inspection was then commenced, the first stopping place being at Field & Wild's.

From here the party walked over to the mill obtaining a fine view of the city. A brief stop at F. H. Ward's and a short walk brought the party to McDonnell & Sons' sheds. Here the sleighs were again taken, and the party proceeded to the quarries, each of which were inspected. The visitors were much interested in the new stone cutting machine at E. F. Carr & Co.'s, which is indeed a wonderful piece of mechanism.

They also were somewhat surprised at the depth of our quarries as compared with those at Barre.

From Quincy street the party proceeded via Common, Cross and Concord streets to Willard street.

Brief stops were made at the O. T. Rogers' Granite Co., the Railway Granite Co., and other quarries in this vicinity; a section of the new Quarry Railroad also being inspected.

While visiting the quarries and sheds about West Quincy, the stop at each being short, they were driven to Quincy Adams, where many monuments in the process of manufacture were inspected.

About 4 o'clock the party came back to the starting point, making their headquarters at The Greenleaf.

By this time the appetites of the visitors had been sharpened by the wind and they were soon enjoying the following menu:

Chicken Broth.

FISH. Boiled Calumet, Olives.

Leg of Lamb, with Capers.

ROAST. Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.

ENTREE. Escalloped Tomatoes, Baked Potatoes.

VEGETABLES. Boiled Potatoes, Mashed Potatoes.

PASTRY. Apple Pie, Mince Pie.

DESSERT. Assorted Cake, Baked Indian Pudding.

Crackers, Cheese, Coffee.

Vanilla Ice Cream.

Mr. Fiske sustained his well known reputation as a host and had soon appeased their appetites. Before they had finished the Granite City band had taken possession of the hall and enlivened the evening with their lively strains.

From this time until 7 o'clock the visitor's time was his own, to do as pleased him.

At seven o'clock the members of the two associations assembled in the hall, where a joint meeting was held, at which matters pertaining to the interest of the business was freely discussed until 9 o'clock.

Then the invited guests present were invited to come forward. John L. Miller, who had presided over the deliberations, introduced Mr. F. B. Clafin, cashier of the Granite National bank.

Mr. Clafin said he was satisfied that the feeling of the gentlemen present was unity. The path of the stone industry is not the path of roses, but was lined with thorns. They grasp the thorns and push them aside and go on toward the goal. He supposed the experience of Quincy was similar to Barre.

The reports that come from Barre are such that Quincy has got to wake up to make any show. He understood the purpose of this meeting to be cooperation and he had no doubt but what the good will would continue in the future.

Mr. Horace F. Spear, cashier of the Mt. Wollaston bank said he was always happy to meet a body of business men, especially granite men, as they are our principal stay. In all his 12 years experience he had never lost a dollar in the granite industry.

This concluded the postprandial exercises and upon the invitation of President Miller the guests adjourned to the lower hall where Caterer Blunt had laid plates for over 200, the menu being as follows:

Bay Oysters.

FISH. Roast Turkey, Roast Beef.

Boiled Ham, Boiled Tongue.

Escalloped Oysters.

LOBSTER. Lobster Salad, Chicken Salad.

Cranberry Sauce.

FOLLS. Folia, Butter.

SHERBERT. Sherbert, Frozen Pudding.

Cake and Coffee.

Fruit.

The interior of Faxon hall had been especially decorated for the occasion by Ed. Beale of Boston, and presented a very pleasing appearance.

In the main hall there were wide streamers of red, white and blue, and from the chandelier colored streamers were draped to the sides and end of the hall. In each window a flag was very prettily draped and on the lamp brackets and pictures on the wall were twigs of cedar. Over the stage and on the stage were also flags. Between the two front entrances the sign read "Welcome" in large gilt letters. The back hall was also draped with flags and streamers.

Down stairs, where the banquet was held, was not forgotten, as both rooms were also abundantly decorated with flags. On one side of the banquet room, beneath a large gilt eagle, were the words, "We greet you all."

After the banquet the guests departed, some for The Greenleaf and some for Boston, all well pleased with the day and conscious of having had a pleasant occasion.

If any doubt had existed in the minds of granite men from Barre that the members of the Quincy Association were not "hale fellows well met," those doubts must have all disappeared as the hours of Monday passed into history, for the committee of the local organization did all in its power to make the visit of their brothers a pleasant as well as a profitable one.

Such gatherings as these cannot fail but to be profitable to both parties, as it affords an opportunity for the interchange of ideas in an industry in which something new is always presenting itself.

Tuesday the New England Association of Granite Manufacturers held its annual meeting in Boston, and Wednesday the Barre manufacturers were the guests of the Concord association.

The Barre men say that they had a recollection of having heard somewhere of Quincy granite men, but they had no idea it was so near at hand. They had read in history that as long ago as 1753 the famous

King's chapel of Boston was built of it.

In those days the granite was split by hand and dropping a heavy ball on it, perhaps Barre men expected to find it there that way now.

History also told them that there was a hundred years ago that the supply in Quincy would be exhausted and they believed it certainly must be now. In 1715 the town voted "That no person shall dig or carry off any stone on the small Commons of 1800, but upon any account whatever, without license from the committee hereafter named, upon penalty of the forfeiture of ten shillings for every and each cart-load so dug and carried away; one-quarter part to be said committee in full satisfaction for the use of the town.

But in 1822 when a monument at Bunker Hill was projected the design of a Quincy man was accepted, and it was built of Quincy stone, and is today after an exposure of half a century to the weather, a good example of the value of Quincy stone. The granite quarried today is even better, yes, much better, and improves as the quarries deepen.

Quincy has furnished granite for the custom houses at New Orleans, Mobile, Savannah, Portland, San Francisco, Providence and elsewhere; the court houses at Boston, Salem, Worcester, and elsewhere; the Boston exchange, the San Francisco exchange, and many other prominent buildings, churches, etc.

In recent years however, most of the granite quarried is used for cemetery and monumental work, and the supply of the state of the union. It has entered into some very large and costly work.

Barre has a rival in recent years for this work, the rivalry of business was forgotten, Monrovia and Quincy manufacturers outdid themselves to make the visit of their guests pleasant and profitable.

Incendary Fires.

The alarm at 12:13 Monday morning from Box 57 was for a fire in the summer residence of John Brennan near the old state quarry, Norfolk Downs. It was an unoccupied and unfurnished and was totally destroyed. The loss was about $2000 and it is not known whether there was an insurance.

Those who arrived at the fire early report finding an open window, and the fire is thought to have been incendiary origin.

It was the first alarm that has been rung in from Box 57.

Monday evening was not a pleasant one for firemen to be out yet an alarm from Box 57 at 6:53 sent them flying toward Norfolk Downs. The fire proved to be a stable owned by John Brennan at Norfolk Downs. The fire, which was evidently of incendiary origin, broke out about 10 o'clock. The alarm was given, which coupled with the high wind made it impossible for the firemen to extinguish the fire before the building was gutted. The loss will not be far from $1000.

My house is in the South where the zephyrs

I'm only a lizard, warm for show
On a lady's cravat, or pinned on her hat,
Perchance on her breast.

Ah, I'd gladly die and be at rest,
If her heart underneath would warmer grow.
I used to bask in the sun's warm glow
And catch my foot where the brooklets flow.

Has not a tear for me clinging here,
With her breast as my bed?
Yes, I slowly die and have no fear
But the heart underneath shall softer grow.

Miscellany.
M. Dufre, Ladies' Tailor.

That was the sign above a third story window opposite a mansion on Fifth avenue. It appeared there one misty morning. When the fog lifted a bit, Miss Mangrove caught sight of it and exclaimed:
"I shall positively sell this house and move further uptown. Trade is as resist-less as thesea, and for society to endeavor to stop its encroachments on the aristocratic portion of the city is vain as with the waves. Labor trade!"

She turned from the window with a shudder, as if the gilt letters of the sign had leaped forward and touched her family on the shoulder.

Miss Mangrove was besieging society.
Jabber Mangrove, her father, had been a persistent success from the time he left the farm and sold tinware from house to house in the post office medicine business.

When he bought for a song a prescription for a liver pill, he quitted peddling and devoted his energies to "pushing "Mangrove's Liver Pills." Fate may have been sarcastic when it took him out of the world by congestion of the liver, but the public had no idea of this. He was a great pocket book was, till the amount of his estate became known, and then there was amazement that there had been so many had lived in the world during one man's lifetime.

The first step taken by his only heir,
Amelia, was to sell the pill manufactory, its good will and patent, at such a sum that proved she was born to commerce.
Then she bought the mortgage on the aristocratic mansion, foreclosed it and took possession. From there she had brought society to take her in, had hoped to ensure some son of one of the old families, and had failed because her father had been in the post office medicine business.

That was why she hated trade.
But her tactics had changed. She had determined to break into society. She wasn't pretty, exactly, but she had a good figure, no nose, and a faded complexion.
She had a large, forceful, pronounced,
not in the way of loquacity, but as noticeable as that of any of the 400. But she was not in it - that was the sum of it. A new man on Fifth avenue, had created her marvellous costumes, society smilingly admired the closed doors of the fashionable world, and she waited in vain.
Who had made it? That was an inquiry that more than one of the ladies asked when she was in her wandering way, and resolved to instruct her maid to quiz Miss Mangrove's maid at first opportunity.

On the second night of the opera season
Miss Mangrove appeared in a different costume, but as one as beautiful as the one worn by her on her first appearance in the aristocratic precincts known as the millionaire's theatre. The third night she was again gowned in a no less becoming dress, but one that she had not yet worn in public.

The society ladies became excited.
"What will she wear tonight?" they asked one another. The answer came in a patiently till Miss Mangrove appeared.
Then they leaped their opera glasses to see whether Miss Mangrove had at last been compelled to make one of her cos-seem to be a gentleman, and one not likely to betray a secret."

She paused a moment to note the effect of her words upon him, and was pleased to find that he was not only attentive, ment or eagerness to learn the nature of the communication she was about to make.

"I determined near to wear the duplicate of the material, or the pattern of a dress on which some other woman, to that extent I can be exclusive. Do you think you are able to meet my demands?
And, if you are, what is it worth to you to undertake to render me wholly original?"

"You don't need to say so," said Miss Mangrove, not very patiently. "It seemed to me, estimating the probable loss that his devotion to one person would cause him. One society woman might make the fortune of a lady's tailor, but a woman not recognized by the 400 was not likely to make other wealthy women years to have M. Dufre make her dresses.
Miss Mangrove interrupted him with thought:-
"Are you doubting your ability?" she asked.

"Not for a moment have I hesitated on that account."
"How will $20,000 suit you?"
"For how long a time in your service?"
"One year, if you are able to do it."
"Perfectly."
"Come to me again tomorrow. We shall then draw up a contract, and you can give me a design for a new dress."

It was upon the evening of the 10th of the month, that after all, "the Mangrove" had captured the latest imported genuine society, and in the evening society wrote her name on the eligible list, - Alexander L. Kirkland, in the Epiph.

Hot Water Free to All.
The hot-water cure for dyspepsia, indig-estation, and kindred ailments is by no means a novelty, but the manner in which it is habitually practiced at the country home of a wealthy New York business man is certainly out of the ordinary. The country home abroad is not more than half an hour's ride by rail from New York, and it is a very attractive resort for the young friends of its hospitable owner.

One day a member of one of the athletic clubs in this city, a young giant in stature and a second Gladiolus in physical health and vigor, received a cordial invitation to spend a few days at this country home. He accepted with alacrity, and presented himself before his host and hostess at the appointed time. He had a most agreeable time, but in narrating his experience to a chum a few days after his return to the city he said: "It was a very pleasant trip, and I was very comfortable, and Mr. M's hospitality is simply delicious. But there was one thing that staggered me at the outset - that was his custom of drinking cold hot water."

Each night, in a box room, and guests dispersed to their respective rooms. A servant would appear in the drawing room with a pitcher of hot water and a lot of goblets. Everybody was expected to drink a gobletful of that exhilarating beverage.
In the hot-water cure it is one of the features of the host. Well, of course I had no use for hot water taken internally, but I drank it, of course, as each of the others did. A second dose of the same liquid was served to us in our room, and I drank it. The third night she was again gowned in a no less becoming dress, but one that she had not yet worn in public.

The society ladies became excited.
"What will she wear tonight?" they asked one another. The answer came in a

What Does It Matter?

Wealth and glory, and place and power. What are they worth to us? For the lease of life runs out in an hour, and death stands ready to claim his due. Sounding honors or heaping of gold? What are they all when all is told?

A pain or a pleasure, a smile or a tear—What does it matter what we claim? For we step from the cradle into the bier, And a careless world goes on the same. Hours of gladness or hours of sorrow, What does it matter to us tomorrow?

Truth or falsehood, friend or friend—Tender caresses or cruel sneers—What does it matter to us in the end? For the brief day dies and the long night nears.

Passionate kisses or tears of gall, The grave will open and cover them all. Poor and honored, or honored guest, Poor and humble, or rich and great—All are recked with the world's unrest. All must meet with the common fate. Life from childhood till we are old, What is it all when all is told?

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

—The anniversary of Washington's birthday is a legal holiday in thirty-nine out of forty-six states and territories.

—When the governor of Massachusetts is insulted, says the Boston Herald, every voter of Massachusetts is insulted, whether he voted for the governor or not. And every good citizen, no matter what his politics may be, should resent an insult to the chosen head of the commonwealth.

—Mr. Edward Brooks, president of the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association, has ordered 1200 quail from Chattanooga. He will spend all the appropriation available this year on quail; being of the opinion that quail is better fitted for our climate than western quail. All quail, however, are to be turned out to the eastward of Boston, and not in the high cold regions of the west of the state.

—Mr. William Durant, treasurer of the Boston Transcript company, has just completed sixty years of continuous service with that newspaper, and the employees, to the number of about 100, have made it the occasion of a celebration in his honor. It is indeed an exceptional record that Mr. Durant has made, not only as regards the length of time covered by his service but in the memorable success with which it is crowned.

—The Abington riot cases have again been continued, this time to the June term of the Superior Court. These cases are against the officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad for the alleged inciting of riots at North Abington Aug. 18, and preventing the electric street railway company from crossing the steam railroad tracks at the Abington station. It is the opinion of many that the cases will never come to trial.

—Senator Hoar proposes that the general government shall effectively outlaw the lottery business. The bill which he has introduced defines a lottery as any "scheme for the distribution of property by chance among persons who have paid, or agreed to pay, a valuable consideration for the chance, whether called a lottery, raffle, or gift enterprise or by some other name." It then refers to the possession of, or bringing into the United States, of tickets, and extends the present law more rigidly than before, making it a crime to make, or making the first offense punishable by fine or imprisonment, and continued offenses by incarceration only. It is made unlawful to import lottery tickets of any kind.

—The mammoth statue of William Penn, which is to surmount the dome of the new Philadelphia city hall, will be 547 feet above the water level. The statue will be 47 feet in height and weigh 60,000 pounds. The rim of the hat is 23 feet in circumference, and William's feet are each 5 feet 4 inches long. The problem now is how that 27-ton weight of metal is to be hoisted up to the top of its 547 feet pedestal.

—When such notable men as Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hall, Cardinal Gibbons, Maj. Gen. Howard, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, George Kneass, Chauncey M. Depew and Hon. Theodore Roosevelt contribute to a newspaper it shows that the publishers regard the best as not too good for the readers of the paper. All these men, with other noted authors, are now writing articles of value and interest for the Boston Sunday Journal. The Journal, by the way, has made great bounds of late on account of its live news and entertaining special articles.

—Editor Marden, the late State Treasurer, says substantially that the present state of affairs is ninety years old, and has been altered so much that its architect, Mr. Bulfinch, wouldn't recognize it if he could come back to earth. It has got to be remodeled, any case, in time; why shouldn't it be done now, care being taken that the main features of the old building are either preserved or reproduced.

—A California woman has proved that she can at least make farming pay. Mrs. E. P. Buckingham, of Yacville, Cal., embarked in the fruit business ten years ago with twenty acres planted in fruit trees. She now cultivates over 300 acres, which yield her a comfortable income.

—Uncle Sam's new postal cards are a little wider than the middle sized cards. The little blue ink ladies' cards are gone forever, and so are the old, medium sized cards. The big cards that advertisers liked so well are still on sale, in some offices, but when the supply is exhausted only the new style will be issued.

—George W. Childs, successor of the late George W. Childs as editor and publisher of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is probably the youngest man ever elected to the position of editor of a newspaper in the United States. Mr. Childs is only 25 years old, but has remarkable strength of character for one so young; he is quiet and courteous in manner.

—Brooklyn has an Eskimo colony.

—Mr. Hallock's farm on Long Island consists of only 67 acres, yet he produced last year 9000 quarts of strawberries, 2500 bushels of early potatoes, 2100 barrels of cabbages, 3500 bushels of onions from sets, 2700 bushels of late potatoes, 12,000 bushels of onions from seeds, 12,500 bushels of carrots, 21 bushels of white beans, three tons of Hungarian hay, 20 pounds of corn, 20 pounds of carrot seed, 16 bushels of Brussels sprouts, 10,000 roots of celery, 800 bushels of corn on ear, 300 bushels of onion sets and 275,000 cabbage plants to carry over.

—The statement is going round that Helen Gould gives away $100 a week that no one knows anything about. This is as good as an Irish bluff.

—Gov. Greenhalge has given Charles H. Smith, the County Treasurer, the quill pen with which he signed the bill appropriating $125,000 complete the addition to the County Court House at Dedham.

—The annual report of the Board of Assessors of Boston for 1893, states that the total valuation of the city, upon which taxes were assessed, for the financial year 1893-4, was $224,455,251; of which $12,170,575 was of land, marsh and flats; $209,482,100 of dwelling houses, stores and other structures; $202,015,500 of personal property other than bank stock separately assessed; $14,115,070 of shares in national banks, located and taxable in Boston.

—President Cleveland appointed on Tuesday last, Winslow Warren of Dedham Collector of the Port of Boston. He has been for years president of the Dedham water company, is one of the trustees of the savings bank and chairman of the parish committee of the Unitarian church.

—Commander-in-chief McCabe of the Sons of Veterans, addressing having Memorial Day fired Sunday, so that its true significance shall not be mixed with base-ball and cock-fights. This is one of the brightest ideas we have heard advanced for many a day.

—The World's Fair buildings seem to be fast disappearing. If there is many more of the decorative use which was made of Iowa corn exhibit which attracted so much attention at the World's Fair.

—We cannot go beyond a certain point in imitation of the handiwork. We have never been able to give life to artificial eyes, limbs, etc.

—We can imitate processes when we understand them. But a short time ago scientists thought that the stomach digested all our food. Under this erroneous impression peeps was always prescribed for indigestion.

—Now we know positively that the stomach digests only albuminous foods (meat, eggs, cheese, etc.), and that peeps only attacks indigestible food.

—Scientists discovered the ferment and the process by which starch (or most important food) is digested, and Paskola was the result of this discovery. We have never been able to give life to artificial eyes, limbs, etc.

—To aid a weak digestion starch food must be cooked and digested before it enters the mouth. The best way of doing this is embodied in Paskola.

—The free vegetable ferments in Paskola aid in the digestion of other foods and relieve all symptoms of indigestion almost immediately.

—Paskola is not a medicine but simply a pure natural starch food naturally pre-digested. It permanently cures where medicine gives only temporary relief.

—What it will do for dyspepsia, anemias, consumptions and all people suffering from indigestion, malnutrition and wasting diseases, is explained fully in a 16-page pamphlet, which will be sent free on request.

The Pre-Digested Food Co., 30 Beane St., N.Y.

Household Receipts.

BOILED OYSTERS. Take the largest oysters and lay them on a folded napkin to absorb the moisture, then drop them into beaten egg and roll in bread crumbs. Place a gridiron over a bright hot fire, broil the oysters carefully on it, and when one side is done turn the other. Serve them on a folded napkin or put a piece of butter on a hot dish, sprinkle a little pepper over it, lay the oysters on, and serve.

WINTER PEAS SOUP. Soak a quart of split peas in water overnight. In the morning put them on to boil in a gallon of water, add a little salt, sugar, an onion cut in slices, a little butter, parsley, a bay leaf, half a pound of streaky salt pork and two pounds of beef or veal, cut into small pieces. As soon as it boils set it back where it will cook slowly until the peas are boiled to a pulp, and the water has reduced half. Take out the salt pork and rub the soup through a sieve, put it into a clean saucepan, let it boil up and serve. If you like you can omit the meat and pork, and one quart of the water, and add one quart of milk and half a pound of butter.

ENGLISH WALNUT CAKE. One and one-half cups of granulated sugar, one cup of butter, three eggs beaten separately, two teaspoonsful of vanilla, one teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-half cup of milk, two cups of flour, one cup of walnuts chopped fine, and one cup of walnuts chopped fine, well sifted with flour. Bake in a square pan, then ice the cake, putting half a walnut about every two inches all over the top, so that each slice of cake will contain one.

Iceing.—One cup of granulated sugar, one-half cup of water. Boil the syrup till it strings from a spoon; have the white of one egg beaten to a stiff froth on a large plate, with about a teaspoonful of lemon juice. Beat the egg fast, beat the syrup to it gradually, and beat the iceing until cold enough to lay on the cakes.

New York Fashions.

SPRING MATERIALS. "Compound wools" are so called because woven with the warp one color and the weft another, so that the two show in union, and the two colors are on the same order, but in richer mixture of hue. Both are typical of the times, since indistinct combinations are a leading feature and hence likewise the coming stylishness of both chine wools and silks. More patterns are seen in fabrics of wool and cotton and more silks reproduced in light qualities will have immense popularity.

MOIRE RIBBONS. In millinery are used almost to the exclusion of gros grain or satin and chine ribbons will correspond with costumes on the like order. All are placed in upright loops or large spreading bows, and trimmings of flowers are to a great extent on the upright order, small flowers being often massed in formal pompadour. Rose foliage thickly set is also a special feature, and long, heavy sprays showing but a single bud at the end, are very stylish. Shapes in millinery do not as yet differ from those of the winter, and the changes will again be rung on picturesque wide brimmed straws or felt, close shapes where jet, gilt or steel alone or in combination, have a leading position. New straws show constantly an alternation of single bands and like widths in open work, and this is the more readily done by the use of mohair that also appears not infrequently in accordance placed patterns at the end of brims. Combinations of different straws are also a feature and there is quite a contrast in color. In parasols seen at Lord & Taylor's, the prominence of moire is very noticeable. Beautiful examples show combinations of lace that is used to a marked degree, not only as a finish, but sometimes in heavy mesh forming a large part of the covering and united with chiffon or crepe in finish. Novel effects also result from lace, chiffon or crepe being draped from the centre of parasols rather than the ribs, the appearance being that of successive festoons. Less expensive parasols, extremely attractive by reason of quiet elegance, show a double row of hemstitching, and it is safe to predict a great future for them. Coaching parasols and those for general use are chiefly in plain, changeable moire or fine striped silks, and in the former the rib is close and small. Seven rib parasols are novel and effective, and a new style of having the light wood handles covered as far as practicable with the color of the silk. Stylish mountings are Dresden china, French gilt or enamel.

OUT FROG GARMENTS. Spring jackets are much shorter than during winter, but retain those features of equality that have been found so attractive. Skirts still flare in contrast to close fitting waists, and large sleeves again prove the salvation of thin shouldered women, nor will stylishness of armholes cape be a forgotten element. Capes again also compete with jackets and will appear in variety of lengths, for young women the shorter ones being most appropriate, while the older will wear them quite long.

LUCKY CATER.

THE ONLY PERFECT SUBSTITUTE FOR Mother's Milk.

My baby has never been sick since I commenced taking Mell's Food, nor will I be satisfied until I have used it all.

Poetry.

Spring Cleaning.
O March wind, blow with all your might!
Stir the drowsy slumber of the night!
Rattle the cold old lead down;
Chase the cold old lead down;
Blow it off with many a gust.
Make the earth all clean again,
And ready for the April rain.

The Professor's Skeleton.

The professor was a good man, a man of unimpeachable character and reputation—a man who had never been known to make a mistake, and also a man who was thoroughly aware of the fact. For his abilities—he knew his work, and how to do it; he likewise knew a good deal about other people's work, and as far as he conveniently could, insisted upon its being done too.

Without going into details, it will readily be understood that, though understanding of his work, and generation, the professor was by no means a popular one; and it was over one of his latest students that his wife and his stepdaughter were conferring one rainy morning in the solitude of the best parlor.

"It is of no use whatever, my dear; he will not even discuss the question. I am very sorry for you, but I don't see any help for it."

"You give way to him a great deal too

much, mother. If he had one shadow of common-sense on his side, it would be another story. It's too late now to pass things over in that high-handed fashion."

"You give way to him a great deal too

much, mother. If he had one shadow of common-sense on his side, it would be another story. It's too late now to pass
things over in that high-handed fashion."

"But it's not sufficient," returned

Mary. "I am too old to be treated that way, papa. If you have anything against me, you must tell me straight and plain."

"Well, for one thing," began the professor, fairly driven to bay—for one thing, his manner is objectionable. I dislike the way in which you treat me. I believe him to be incurably careless and selfish; and I do not speak without observation. Then, he is wanting in the commonest courtesy of a gentleman; I rate, him only the other day, she had been able to accomplish nothing in the way of bringing the professor to a more satisfactory state of mind.

"I suppose you go off to your country

quarters next week, and it will be a long time before you will see me again.
The first chance I have of a solemn square-up with the professor, be sure I'll take it.
But for that unlucky carriage, there might have been no trouble of any kind.
Why did you risk it?"

"It was impossible to help it, Mary. If only you had seen him chasing round in that famous umbrella after some imaginary miscreant who had tampered with his papers."

It could not be undone now, and the pair had just to make the best of the position. For the next few days Doctor Dow kept his household in a perfect whirlwind of preparation that effectually shut out all hope of private debate. On Sunday he raked up some acquaintance at the other side of the town, and spent the whole day there; and on Monday morning, provincially triumphant, he stood on the front steps surveying the train of cars waiting to convey his family and their belongings to the station, and keeping a vigilant outlook for possible shortcomings.

"Now, mother, if you would have some little regard for neatness. I never in my life saw such a disreputable portmanteau. What was your mother thinking of to allow it to go? Unless I lose my head by the way."

"Richard, did you notice if that rug

was carried out?" interrupted Mrs.
Dow from behind.

"It was, my dear, and put into the second in line. I never yet met with a woman who knew where the wraps went, or if there were any at all. It takes a man."

Mrs. Dow did not wait to hear the response; she heard it before. She went back into the dining-room, and a further consignment of packages was stacked upon the table, and began to strap up an overhanging bag.

"Now, mother, we will just go and put ourselves into the first cab, and leave the man to wind up any way that pleases him."

It came to an end at last. The professor

with hands under his coat-tails, strutted round the various rooms, turned the key in the front door with his own hand and descended the steps. One foot in the cab, he paused and looked searchingly at his wife.

"Isabella, do you remember where my study coat was packed?"

"Oh, dear!" cried Mrs. Dow, stricken into dire confusion and consternation, "I do believe it hasn't been packed at all; it's hanging up in that dark closet behind your study."

"I knew it!" ejaculated her husband.

Doctor Dow stalked majestically in without vouchsafing a backward glance;
he passed the dining-room door, his study door, and turned up a dim, narrow passage;
the closet door was at the end, a big, dark cavern, that served as a general receptacle for lumber, and all the odds and ends of
conveniently could, insisted upon its being done too.

The professor had been to the front door in a tone of indignant ex-postulation—"do you know we have only fifteen minutes left to get to the station."

Doctor Dow gathered up his malcontent coat under his arm, turned and locked the closet door—which had swung to of its own accord—and rushed once more into the street.

might have been composed of black fringe,

for any color that could be seen.
Mr. Grierson shook his head discourag-ingly.

"I'm afraid Mrs. Dow will never put that again."

"I never had a misfortune like this in my life before," wailed her unhappy husband, "I'd almost as soon the whole place had caught fire."

Mr. Grierson shook his head a second.

It was quite a refreshment of spirit to be able to look on reprovingly; he would not have missed the chance for a good deal, even if his own affairs had to stand over in consequence. "How would it be if you were to say nothing about it?" he suggested cautiously. "Get a charwoman in and have this mess cleared away? It's only soot after all—there's no real damage done."

The professor grasped at the idea, like

the proverbial drowning man at the straw.
"Could it be done?" he asked anxiously.
"There is that cloak, too, only it mightn't last winter?"

"Could you get another like that?"

"Insinuated the tempter. "You're sure to have plenty more at the shop it came from; women's clothes are all cut after the latest fashions."

The professor felt heading into the trap. John Grierson at once placed himself at the head of affairs, and the professor was like a fly in the hands of the netter. By ten o'clock the professor's sister's credit was saved, but his innocence was gone. For him, a grimy skeleton would haunt that closet through all time to come.

Whatever John Grierson's failings might have been in the past, Doctor Dow had no reason to complain of his doing things by halves on this occasion. He gave the finishing touches to everything, swept away all traces of the charwoman's presence, took upon himself the sole responsibility of the cloak transaction, and presented himself at the station the next morning in abundance of time to hasten into the professor's carriage and secure him that detection was impossible.

"I really do not know what to say to you, Mr. Grierson," said the professor, unusually arranging his parcels on the opposite seat. "You have given yourself a good deal of trouble over this unfortunate accident."

"Don't think of it," said Mr. Dow, a society called the Sons of Temperance; and although they were few and hardly known here, he took order to advance or make their existence known in Quincy, yet through the energy of one or two active members, a work was begun which in one or two years, aroused a fervor among the liquor sellers; such a work was never before dreamed of, and in the end it was a difficult thing to buy liquor, in any of the low places at least, and the hotels considered their business threatened; a more respectable basis, for no one at that time supposed it could be entirely done away with.

At this time, July 1856, the writer opened an office in the Erie Building over the store occupied by Mr. J. W. Norton, and having been appointed a justice of the peace, Mr. Ira Newcomb, a member of the society above named, made application to him for a warrant against some person for selling liquor in Quincy. Any justice of the peace at that time could try cases of this class in his county, and a warrant was issued and put into the hands of an officer and the first liquor case in Quincy was begun. The case was heard, and the next two years the law was enforced and a crusade carried on by a small body of citizens against liquor selling, harder and firmer than any that has been since waged by anybody in the town or county.

With the exception of a few, the people

at large sympathized with the dealer, which in various ways made it exceedingly difficult to secure a conviction, and then as most of the cases were appealed and brought to the courts were lax and cold but little weight was given to the evidence, and it was easy to continue all such prosecutions until they were at last not pressed. Almost any person could hold the charge of selling liquor, and could obtain bail and most persons thought they were doing a deed of charity or kindness in assisting persons convicted of this offense.

Even the fathers of the town thought it best to allow people having a family, and in poor circumstances, to sell rather than that the town should assist them; and in every way frowned upon these persons engaged in the enforcement of the law.

Threatening letters were received by the writer and others in order to deter them from prosecuting for these offenses. So matters stood until the great excitement after the war which revolutionized the state.

In the year 1858, the law establishing the trial jury system was passed, and William S. Morton, Esq., was the first magistrate under the law to be appointed.

During his time he was not called upon to issue many warrants under the liquor law, but a few cases will show the public feeling at this time. Mr. Morton was a very honest and upright man, and no man could be convicted by him on spotter testimony. The state police had made complaint that liquor was being sold at the New Squantum house and these cases were brought before him. The writer was counsel for the defendants and the evidence so far as learned, looking dangerous and damaging to the defense. We went to Major Jones, then Chief of Police and requested him to stop the prosecution, stating at the time that the defendant would abandon the trial. The good-natured major gave me a note directed to the court, in which he stated that he was willing to drop the cases if it seemed proper to the justice, and the justice taking this same view of the matter was about to discharge the defendants, when the question arose how it should be done; but after the case was heard his honor said that the government had entirely failed to maintain its allegations in that it had introduced no evidence showing whiskey to be intoxicating, and so the

A Fine Concert.

The Kaffir choir sang at the Wollaston Congregational church Tuesday evening. The choir was enthusiastically received by a crowded house and every piece received a hearty encore. This choir is composed of the representatives of seven distinct tribes of South Africa—the Amosaxo, Fingo, Tembo, Bapedi, Basuto, Zulu and Xosa.

There is indeed little trace of the negro type about several of them. The choir is collecting funds for the promotion of the technical education of Kaffirs and has been very successful having added several thousand dollars to its treasury.

MILTON.

The Baptist church holds four special meetings next week. Mr. McElwaine, assistant pastor of Clarendon Street church, is in attendance.

Mr. Whittemore, who fell and broke his leg last fall, is about again with the aid of crutches.

The house of Mrs. Akery on Bryant Avenue has been sold to Timothy Curran of West Quincy.

Miss Mary Margaret Webster, accompanied by other Milton musicians, gave an excellent musicale in Associates hall, Milton, Tuesday evening.

Some of the politicians who have been blowing their ram's horns expecting to be elected to the legislature at the present session, are now in the hands of the law.

An amusing experience to two of East Milton's citizens occurred on town meeting day. James Crawford, carpenter and builder, went up early to cast his vote so that the country might be saved from the cholera through the election of a new board of health.

In the afternoon he again sallied forth accompanied, by Mr. Geo. Van Horn, travelling agent for the Wollaston machinery factory. When they came opposite the Milton Academy, Crawford desired Van Horn to hand him as they were to follow him to the polls.

Van Horn, who is not very familiar with the lay of the land in upper Milton, somewhat questioned if the building were the right place, but Crawford went on with great emphasis declared: "That is the place to have the place, after having cast his vote like a good adopted patriot in the morning." Therefore, they approached the portals of the seat of learning like a coy maiden going to meet her lover, but the porter refused to open. They turned away and continued on their journey. Mr. Van Horn is still wondering what induced Crawford to desire to attend college, whether it be the head of the new New England school, or if he desired to know of the peculiar traits of character attributed to the deity.

The annual concert of the Dorchester High school was held in the Associated States hall Saturday evening, and there was a crowded house. A very interesting program was given.

Huntington F. Walcott post, G. A. R., will have a campfire, Wednesday evening, March 15, at 8 o'clock.

The annual meeting Monday was the largest for many years. George R. R. Rivers was moderator. It was the intention to close the polls at 2 o'clock but in waiting and in the end it was 3 o'clock before they finally closed. Everybody except voters was then excluded from the floor and the voters began the consideration of the remainder of the warrant. The appropriations were as follows:

The Quincy Patriot.

THURSDAY, MAR. 17, 1894.

Our Streets and Sidewalks.

We had the pleasure the first of the week to ride over some of the principal streets in this city, and were surprised to find them in so good condition. Usually our roads are poorer in March than at any other time during the year. The frost working out of the ground in the spring makes them wet, muddy and rutty. But, by the excellent manner in which many of them have been repaired during the last few years, we have got rid of much of the difficulty experienced in former times at this season of the year.

Washington street, which leads from our shipping port to the center of the town never was, to our knowledge, in such excellent condition. Although there is much heavy carting done on this street, it is kept in good condition. The city engineers need cleaning out and some of the loose dirt scraped off, but very little labor is needed to put it in a prime condition. Granite street, one of the worst streets usually to ride over, was in good condition; the best we ever saw. Quincy avenue was excellent; and so was the most of Adams street, Hancock street, Water street, and many others. We hope the good work that has been done may be continued, and that the City Council will appropriate more money than they did last year, so that the work can be continued.

We think one thing is very much neglected, and that is the sidewalks. They do not receive the attention that they deserve. Very little has been done to improve them since they were first built, and then they were not half made. On Spear street the water stood for many days in February from one to two inches deep, and the sidewalks across the sidewalk, and the pedestrians either had to wade through it or go into the street; and we know from our own observation, that the sidewalk on some parts of that street has not had so much as a load of gravel dumped upon it for twenty-five years.

No doubt the sidewalks on that street is no worse, if as bad, as on many others in this city. And for this reason we believe that more attention should be given to them. They are as essential if not more so, than good roads, and we hope the Mayor, the Commissioner of Public Works, City Council, and citizens generally will wake up to the fact, that Quincy must have better sidewalks.

Only Quincy Born.

As a number of parents of children who were not born in Quincy have made inquiries as to whether their children could attend the Woodward Institute, the directors wish to state that the enforcement of Section I of Dr. Woodward's will is mandatory and not optional, and that none but native born girls can enter. The section referred to reads as follows: "Whenever the income from the foregoing bequest shall be sufficient in the opinion of the managers of said fund, or at least within twenty-five years after my decease, they shall establish and continue for the town of Quincy a free female institute, for the education of females from the age of ten to twenty years, who are native born,—born, I wish to be understood, in the town of Quincy, and none other than these, to be allowed to attend this institute, which I wish to be as perfect and well constructed as any other in the state."

In a few days the seats will be in position in the different rooms. The dedicatory exercises will be postponed until the proposed addition to the building is made. The first term will commence April 10, and the session for that term will be from 8 o'clock a. m. to 1 o'clock p. m. An instructor in mathematics will be appointed in a few days. The day on which the public will be invited to inspect the building will shortly be announced.

Universal Entertainment.

The entertainment in the vestry of the Universalist church on Wednesday evening was enjoyed by the audience. Miss Belle Fletcher sang acceptably a solo, and Miss Lizette Burritt gave a duet which received a hearty encore. The readings were by Miss Elizabeth Randall and Joseph E. Parker from the Emerson School of Oratory, Boston, and they gave perfect satisfaction. The two young ladies were wholly unlike in their manner and their method of telling, yet, each excelled in her way, and because these differences in style, the entertainment was the more pleasing. They goodly naturedly responded to the repeated calls for selections, and there seemed to be no limit to their means of entertaining an audience.

Incendiary Fire.

Shortly before 8 o'clock Wednesday evening one of the men employed in Hall's stable discovered a lively little blaze in progress in the rear of Turrell & Sons' carriage manufactory and an alarm was sounded from box 23 at 7:45. Meanwhile the jumper kept at Hall's stable had been got out and a line of hose run to the fire, which proved to be in a lot of excelsior and rubbish which had been thrown out there. Fortunately it was several feet from any building. Before the water could be turned on to the line of hose that had been laid the Central station apparatus arrived and as they wanted to put a gate on to the hydrant some little time was lost in getting water onto the fire, as one side of the gate refused to close and had to be taken off. This delay led many to believe that the hydrant was out of order but it was not for it worked all right. The origin of the fire is a mystery. It was either spontaneous combustion, or by an incendiary and it is thought the latter was the cause.

New Steamboat Line.

The Transcript says the Quincy, Boston & Nantasket Steamboat Company has staked out the location for a landing and pier at Sagamore Hill, and will begin the work of construction immediately. The company is rushing the work on the new boat at Wellington's River engine works, Weymouth, and intends to have the new line in operation June 1. The company proposes to run its boats between Quincy Point, Marble Beach, Nantasket Beach, and probably Downer Landing. The boat line will run in connection with the Quincy & Boston electric railway, and will be managed by the veteran steamboat man Wesley A. Gove.

Blue Hill Predictions.

Observer Clayton at the Blue Hill observatory made the following predictions Friday for the ensuing week: The greatest probabilities of rain or snow during the week are on Tuesday or Wednesday, and on Friday night. The warmest days will probably be Monday and Tuesday, and the coldest Wednesday to Thursday morning, with lowest temperature on Thursday morning. The probabilities for the individual days are: Saturday—Fair and cold. Sunday and Monday—Fair and warmer. Tuesday—Increasing cloudiness followed by rain or snow. Wednesday—Rain or snow, followed by clearing; colder. Thursday—Fair; colder during morning, followed by rising temperature. Friday—Increasing cloudiness, followed by rain or snow; warmer.

CITY BRIEFS.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co. are ready for Easter. William R. Lyons has had his pension released. William Raymond has been granted a pension. The sun will set at 6 o'clock the 23d of this month.

City Auditor Hall fell down the cellar stairs at his residence on Hancock street, Sunday afternoon, and was quite badly bruised by coming in contact with the stone wall. He is not confined to the house.

The election returns of the State and municipal elections of 1893 will appear in the City Record, Friday morning. These have been published since Quincy became a city, and the want of official returns handy for reference has often been felt.

Thursday afternoon Henry T. Bailey, agent of the State Board of Education, spoke to the Codding school to the teachers, assistants and trainers on the connection between drawing and the regular studies of the school curriculum.

Agent Furnell of the M. S. F. T. P. O. C. T. Animals took a horse from a junk dealer as he was passing through the centre Woodward morning. The animal was washed but skin and bones and not fit to use. Ward was telephoned for to come out after him.

Rev. Dr. Phillips M. Moxom of Boston is to supply the pulpit of First church on Sunday, March 25. There will be elaborate Easter floral decorations and special music for the occasion. The society extends a cordial invitation to all citizens of the city to be present.

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters met with Miss Rosa Drake Monday evening. The program was as follows: Piano duet by Miss Alice Littlefield; reading, Miss Alice Sampson; duet, Miss Marian Bailey and Miss Sampson. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

The neighborhood club met Tuesday evening with Capt. and Mrs. Eugene H. Hultman on Washington street, and the evening proved to be one of enjoyment to those present. The entertainment provided consisted of instrumental music and games of various kinds, while the furniture was of no end of amusement. Refreshments were served.

Mayor Hodges Tuesday made requisition on the local board of examiners of the Civil Service Commission for names on the eligible list from which to fill the vacancy in the police caused by the recent resignation of Joseph W. Hayden. Three names were furnished as required by law, and the Mayor selected that of Mr. John J. Conley, the present efficient officer at the Quincy station.

The annual state inspection of Co. K, 5th Infantry, took place Monday evening at the armory in Braintree. Col. Carter was the inspecting officer, accompanied by Maj. Quaker. The evening's work consisted of company movements and the ceremony of guard mounting. The colonel was very much pleased with the work of the company, and especially with the attendance, the full company being present.

The Old Colony Memorial says that Miss Small, who is to be head teacher at the Woodward Seminary, has selected Miss Louise J. Burgess of Plymouth as teacher of telegraphy, stenography and typewriting, at the Woodward Institute. It is an excellent choice, for Miss Burgess is well prepared in these arts, having had much practice in the W. U. Telegraph office here and will prove herself a competent teacher.

Rev. E. G. Porter of Dorchester occupied the pulpit of the Evangelical Congregational church on Sunday morning. Although his sermon was about twice as long as Rev. Mr. Norton generally gives his people it was very instructive and interesting, and all felt they were much benefited by the sermon.

It was a historical sketch of the discovery, civilization, downfall and present situation. He believed the queen should never be restored.

The Board of Instruction of the Woodward Institute has selected three teachers, making four already engaged. Miss Frances C. Lane, who will teach English and history, was graduated at Wellesley and is at present teaching in the Marlboro High school. Miss Edith H. Wilder, who will teach Latin and Greek, was graduated at the Boston University, and is now an assistant teacher in the Hingham High school. Both are experienced teachers and come well recommended.

The poverty party given by the Worcester Congregational church yesterday on Tuesday night attracted a large crowd of ragamuffins in rags and tatters. Miss Flood entertained them with a piano solo, Miss Collins with a reading and Mr. Charles P. Tanner with a vocal solo. The entertainment was concluded with a musical quartet.

The following is justice to Mr. John M. Beals of Wollaston is copied by request from a Chicago paper:

John M. Beals, formerly of Beals & Co., dealers in leather, ornaments and shoe lace, Boston, writes Hild and Leather in reference to a paragraph in its issue of February 8, which stated that the case of William Beals, a partner in the partnership of Beals & Co., came to trial with the result that Hayden was "fully acquitted." Mr. Beals feels that the explanation of the facts are due him. He informs Hild and Leather that he had Hayden arrested for embezzling funds and was away on a business tour in Europe. Mr. Beals continues: Hayden made a partial confession of his pecuniary losses, and the jury found a bill against him for this. He made the money to pay his bill. He also admitted that he had committed forgery. The judge put him on probation, without sentence, on the recommendation of the Dill Leather Co. who were willing to employ him.

Mr. Beals evidently justified in requesting Hild and Leather to contradict the previous statement that this man Hayden who pleaded guilty was "exonerated." The facts in the case prove the contrary.

Trap Club. The Wollaston Trap Club held its third regular shoot of the season at its third Hill grounds on Saturday afternoon. These shoots will be held every Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, weather permitting. The score of the previous 25:

Death of a Granite Man. John Parks, a well known granite dealer of Barre, Vt., formerly of the firm of Parks & Dunbar, and ex-chief of the socialist class, died Wednesday of consumption.

On Tuesday evening next the Wollaston Co-operative bank will have $10,000 to loan on real estate. For particulars see notice in another column.

It is a good time to build, as money can be borrowed at low rates and building materials are cheaper than a year ago.

—Rev. George B. Lawton has resigned his pastorate at West Bridgewater.

WEST QUINCY.

The auction sale of the Donahoe estate on W. J. J. Street, Bridgewater, was postponed to Tuesday, April 3.

The West Quincy Epworth League met with Miss Louise Shackley Wednesday evening, a large number being present.

There was a short entertainment consisting of a band duet by Messrs. Barron and Gragg, harmonica and banjo by William Gragg. Games, refreshments, etc., furnished the remainder of the evening's entertainment.

Arthur Roberts of Nantasket spent Sunday with friends at West Quincy.

Mr. Herbert Russell is the guest of Miss Lilla Huntington on Copeland street.

George Schools, baggage master of the Granite branch, is at home on Center street, sick with typhoid fever.

Miss Nellie E. Ring, assistant teacher at the Wollaston school, has accepted a position as teacher of one of the schools of Weymouth.

The Ladies' Social Union of West Quincy Methodist church, held a business meeting Monday evening with Mrs. Charles Goucher on Crescent street.

The local police of the police of Station 2 to have raided, Tuesday afternoon, the police shop at 19 Province Court, Boston, and seized a lot of police slips, materials, etc., and about $100 worth of furniture and fixtures. The officers arrested John W. Wentworth and Charles J. Wilson of 33 Palmer street for being present.

Primitive Methodists. Rev. A. G. Murray, pastor. Morning service at 10:30 o'clock conducted by the pastor at 10:30. Topic: "The Problem of Little Things." Sunday School at 11:45 A. M. Epworth meeting at 6:30 P. M., the praise and prayer service at 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend all these services.

M. E. Church, West Quincy. Rev. W. B. Baldwin, pastor. Preaching by the pastor at 10:30. Topic: "The Problem of Little Things." Sunday School at 11:45 A. M. Epworth meeting at 6:30 P. M., the praise and prayer service at 7 o'clock. All are cordially invited to attend all these services.

QUINCY POINT. Benjamin J. Weeks has a new nine-room house up and based on Edison street. Messrs. McIntyre & Kirk are at work on a 35-foot water line naphtha launch for John Chabrous of Boston, which will be completed in about ten days.

Box 79 has been cut out of the fire alarm circuit. The box is located in front of the residence of Mr. William Young, near the Quincy Point bridge.

Mr. Frederick Souther, who has been housed about all winter in a side lot, has been out since. He has had a hard time of it, but is in hopes as good mild weather comes, to feel better.

Old Industry Revived. One of the best situated ship yards in the state is that of Quincy Point, which was first occupied by Mr. Thomas of Rockland, Me., in 1854. He carried on the business for twenty-four years, during which time he built nineteen fine large ships, making an aggregate of thirty-two thousand tons, the last vessel being in 1877. Of late years however little or no work has been done at the old yard, Messrs. McIntyre & Kirk have, however, recently occupied the yard and have had the building erected, and has already commenced active work, although their plant is not fully completed as yet. When complete employment will be given to forty or fifty men.

The firm have the contract to do the work on the cup defender Pilgrim, which will be altered into a private steam yacht for the present owner, work on which will be commenced this week so that the ship will be ready for the water when the season opens. They also have a 21-foot ketch about built already for planking. This boat is being built by Mr. McIntyre's local composite construction, which does away with many of the objections of composite construction, as well as giving great strength and lightness. Besides the above the firm have orders for five more ketches for Boston, and the ketches for the same which will be laid this week, also a 40-foot overall fin keel racer for New York parties. The revival of boat building at Quincy Point will give a new impetus to that section of the city which has natural resources for this branch of business unsurpassed, as it is nearly surrounded by water and affords excellent opportunities for hauling up and launching boats of almost any size.

Young Men's Christian Assn. The monthly meeting of the Women's auxiliary will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be a Bible reading, followed by a business session. The members whose fees are payable will confer a favor by paying this month, as it is desirable to report a paid-up membership at the quarterly meeting in April.

The Congregational church yesterday on Tuesday night attracted a large crowd of ragamuffins in rags and tatters. Miss Flood entertained them with a piano solo, Miss Collins with a reading and Mr. Charles P. Tanner with a vocal solo. The entertainment was concluded with a musical quartet.

ATLANTIC.

Fred Davis formerly of the Globe market, Newport, is at Timberlake & Small's Atlantic store.

Jeremiah Mahoney and T. Archibald Whelan of Atlantic have accepted an engagement with the Three Star Combination, a travelling troupe.

Frederick C. Pope has been appointed assistant assessor for Ward 6, vice William H. Owen resigned.

A fine collection of Easter music is being rehearsed by the Atlantic Memorial choir, and a most interesting service will be held at the chapel.

Last week Friday evening Miss Hall was the scene of a large and most brilliant dancing party. It was one of the series given by the Atlantic Social club and certainly was one of the most successful.

The favorable weather enabled the friends of this social organization to come from the nearby towns in large numbers and by 9 o'clock the floor was completely filled with merry dancers. The ladies looked charming. The gentlemen were for the most part in evening dress and it is seldom that a more social and jolly party is seen together in this vicinity.

Excellent refreshments were served by Thomas the caterer. By general request more than fifty plates of ice cream and what will close the season in Atlantic.

The frame of Duggan's new block is up and work is being pushed forward. A special meeting of the Squantum Yacht club was held Monday evening at the club house at the foot of Vassall street, Norfolk Downs. After the regular business was transacted, an informal talk was held. Then a clam chowder and "Aixis" were served. The first time the members have met in the new rooms, which are tastefully fitted up with pictures of boats and other marine views. It is expected that the formal opening or house warming will take place on Friday evening.

The contract for building the new Methodist church at Atlantic has been awarded to Mr. Geo. A. Brown and the work upon the same will begin at once. It is expected to have the cornerstone laid about the first of April, when a full description of the church will be furnished. The bids for the building of the church, exclusive of the pews, etc., were as follows:

Whitaker & Gerish, $8,600
F. S. Boyden, 6,100
Mr. Bolen, 5,980
W. J. Hatch, 5,750
Bowler & Alger, 5,350
T. S. Kingston, 4,840
Box 79, 3,700

As it was estimated that the cost of the building would be in the neighborhood of five thousand dollars, the unexpected low bid of Mr. Brown was a surprise, but Mr. Brown is a prominent builder and real estate dealer in Atlantic, who has had experience in building churches, and declares he is safe at these figures. He also offers good and satisfactory bonds that the church will be completed as agreed upon.

Atlantic Galsing. Who says Atlantic and the city are not growing? It has taken a town and there are visions of want of more school accommodations. Just think of it, the smallest school in the city and seven habitable rooms of seven days, and six of them boys. Here they are:

March 6, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boardman.
March 9, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boardman.
March 10, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Lyons.

March 11, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Knowles.
March 12, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Madden.
March 13, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Price.
March 13, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Madden.
And goodness knows how many more.

SOUTH QUINCY. Wednesday evening was the occasion of a very pleasant social gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richardson on Gay street. Music and dancing comprised the evening's entertainment, after which refreshments were served.

Presbyterian Church. Rev. W. Steele, pastor. Morning service at 10:30 A. M. and 7 P. M. by Rev. E. J. Sarkis of Andover Seminary. Sunday School at close of this service. Y. P. C. U. Tuesday evening. Congregational prayer service on Thursday evening. Come and welcome.

MILTON. The old Baptist church will be altered into a dwelling. Frank Kemp, formerly of Kemp & Tisdale, has opened a store on the corner of Adams street and seven habitable rooms of seven days, and six of them boys. Here they are:

March 6, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boardman.
March 9, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Boardman.

A Racking Cough
Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.
Lockport, N. Y., says:
"Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a croup, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions.
While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was Nearly in Despair, and had about decided to try up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. I then resolved to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

Poetry.
Easter Morning.
Emphatically the glad, expectant ear,
Beneath the gentle kiss of nature's breath,
Whose melody preludes the morning's birth.
To whisper of the joy that follows death;
While silently the starlight disappears
Before the splendor of the coming morn.
That thrills the world with strange, ecstatic fear.
As unto her wondrous life is born;
For see! as hurling darkness from the skies
The sun appears in radiant splendor With the Revolution. The break was frozen tight, the ridges of snow yet lay along the mountain gorges, and old Greta hastened into the house, her head tied up in a woolen shawl, like a scudgling before a cyclone.
"Miss Becky! Miss Becky!" she screamed, "the wassals has got into the house—and killed every solitary fowl!
Bless 'em to death as well as it was done with a lance!"
At the same moment, Lillian Darling had rushed into the room from where they came a fire—the great, shining, yellow-white light—crying out, "The wassals have got into the house—and killed every solitary fowl!"
"Oh, Rebecca! the wassals are frozen, and so are all the lilies-of-the-valley and the callas that you were keeping for the Easter market! Oh, isn't it dreadful!" Rebecca Darling laid down her tablet and said:
"You are a pair of Cassandra's," said she,
with enforced composure. "Is there any other piece of bad news you have got to tell me?"
"I say, Miss Becky," called a voice from the shed adjoining, "I ain't fit to come in where folks is, but I'll just go to see Squire Parlett's well as a drum!"
Our chain pump's fric as well as water!

Becky and Lill looked at each other in surprise, that slowly melted into amusement.
"Adonijah," said B. C. K., "you are a very bad boy, indeed," said Lill.
"But of course we shall not tell," added Becky.
"Let it be an example for some one else to follow," supplemented Lill.
And Adonijah retired with a broad grin upon his gypsy-like countenance.

Children and Money.
Seemingly children are trained in all branches of education but this, yet from earliest childhood they should be taught to value money, not only as a power to be respected, but that its accumulation is a positive duty, in order not only to provide for old age, but as one of the great motives of advancement and civilization.
Some say they do not care for money, yet, as a wise woman said, "Oh, no, they do not care for money, but they very much value what money will bring."
I know of several families who, by the means of starting well in life, with intelligence and advantageous surroundings, are now drifting into absolute poverty for want of this early training. In one instance, a young man, who was a member of the 30th Congress from the district which then included Quincy, Canton, Dedham and other towns in Norfolk County. The other members from Massachusetts to the 30th Congress were Daniel Webster and John Davis, senators. Amos Abbott, George Ashmun, Joseph Grinnell, Artemas Hale, Charles Hudson, Daniel P.
King, J. G. Palfrey, Julius Rockwell and Robert C. Winthrop. Mr. Adams was struck with paralysis while in his seat in the Capitol, on the 21st day of February, 1848. He died on the 23rd of that month; his last words were: "This is the last of earth! I am content!"

Chinese Voter in Boston.
Moy Winn is Boston's only Chinese voter. The entry on the registers' book is "Moy Winn C. 22 Harrison avenue."
Therefore I called for Mr. Moy. But it is not Mr. Moy. It is Mr. Winn. Moy Winn is between 35 and 40 and was naturalized in San Francisco. His father was one of the inspectors of the Six Commissions, and these men were great powers in the importation of Chinese before their prerogatives were handed over to the Chinese consul on the passage of the Chinese exclusion law.
Winn was pretty well educated in San Francisco and talks excellent English.
Seven or eight years ago he came to Boston and with partners went into the importing business. In good years his firm does between $20,000 and $40,000 worth of business and the profits of the store at 22
Harrison avenue are large.
He is the drummer of the firm, and is in charge of the sales. He is a very honest largely among wholesalers, who do a considerable business with him, handling as he does some specialties.
He has branched out into musical instruments and has a fine stock of goods, and a feline fiddle, a cross between a banjo and a mandolin, a banjo so far as appearance goes, but a mandolin so far as high notes are concerned.
The music is weird, snaky, hilarious, according to the player's mood, but it is never anything but snaky. The tom-toms—that is not the name, nobody could spell it in English—are getting to be popular with young women, and are interesting in their young pupils and the squeak has been heard in the Back Bay.

The Power of Prayer.
Parson Sande, a colored divine of deep lore, and Simon, a theological student, roomed together. The other morning, when Simon arose, he discovered his watch had been stolen. When Sandy, who had left his bed early, came into the room, Simon spoke to him about the missing watch, and asked him advice as to the best course to pursue for its recovery.
Simon said: "I have a watch, and I am wondering if you would care to buy it."
Simon said: "I have a watch, and I am
wondering if you would care to buy it."
Simon said: "I have a watch, and I am
wondering if you would care to buy it."

Weather Proverbs for March.
If March comes in like a lamb, it goes out like a lion.
If March comes in with a head, it goes out with a peacock tail.
March in January, January in March, is fear.
When March is like April, April will be like March.
Snow in March is bad for fruit or grapevine.
Rain in March, poor harvest.
A dry March, wet April and cool May Fill barn and cellar and bring plenty.
Dust in March brings grass and foliage.
A bushel of March dust is like a king's ransom.
A peck of March dust and showers in May Make corn green and fields gray.
A damp, rotten March gives pain to farmers.
A windy March and a rainy April make a beautiful May.
March wind and May sun
Make clothes white and maidens dun.
March grass never did good.
March damp and warm.
Will do the farmer much harm.
March dry and windy
Makes the barn full and finely.

New Method of Making Carpets.
The manufacture of carpets by an entirely new method has lately been discovered at Pueblo, Col., imported Irish linen being the component material, no wool being used in the weaving of the product.
The goods are sold and cut to fit any room, and then finished in designs and patterns, and the taste of the purchaser is satisfied. The goods are made in the factory. It is asserted that not only are the colors guaranteed to be fast, but that the cost of the carpets is

Woodward Institute.

The following facts concerning the excellent corps of teachers at the new Woodward Institute will be of interest.

Principal, Miss Carrie E. Small, recently principal of Plymouth High school; educated at Wellesley College.

Classics, Miss Edith H. Wilder, recently assistant in Hingham High school; educated at Boston University.

English Literature and History, Miss Frances C. Lacey, recently assistant in Marlborough High school; educated at Wellesley College.

Mathematics, Miss Sarah W. Lane, recently assistant in Braintree High school; educated at Harvard Annex.

Science, Miss Charlotte F. Franklin, recently assistant in Middlebury, Conn. High school; educated at Smith college.

Stenography, Typewriting, Telegraphy and Bookkeeping, Miss Charlotte J. Burgess, recently a telegraph operator, etc.; educated at Plymouth High school.

Music and general assistant, Miss Maude E. Rice, recently assistant in Atlantic Grammar school; educated at Bridgeport Normal.

Miss Georgianna Lane of Quincy, graduate of the Boston Normal Art School was nominated as instructor in drawing, art, etc. Final action was postponed until the next school year.

It will be noticed that these are all experienced teachers, and are specialists in the several departments of work to which they have been assigned.

The desks have arrived and will be set up in a few days.

Over 90 applications for admission have been received.

For the next three months there will be a preparatory class to train the younger pupils for the sixth grade of the fall term.

It is understood that preparations are being made by the ladies of Quincy, to give Miss Small and her assistants a reception.

Probably but little will be done in manual and physical training until the fall term.

Banquet at Wollaston.

The gentlemen's supper, which was given by Mr. Frederick H. Bishop and his co-laborers at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening was a great success. The large company of ladies and gentlemen, after a short social talk, adjourned to the dining room where they were served with a hot turkey supper.

After the supper Mr. Bishop called the company to order and in a few brief remarks presented Mr. H. W. Lull, the Superintendent of Schools, as toastmaster.

The programme included these toasts which were responded to as follows:

"Wollaston,"—Henry O. Fairbanks.

"Commercial Traveler,"—Eugene H. Sprague.

"Village Doctor,"—Dr. Geo. B. Rice.

"Children,"—Arthur Smith.

"Music,"—Chandler H. Smith.

"On the Road,"—Frederick H. Bishop.

"Unity club,"—Geo. W. Bennett.

"Stage,"—Walter E. Simmons.

"Hospitance,"—Walter M. Hatch.

"Sunday School,"—Frank A. Page.

"Our Public Schools,"—Sylvester Brown.

"Our Pastor,"—Rev. James Bagley.

"The New Testament,"—

The DAILY LEDGER of Friday contained a report of nearly two columns giving abstracts of the speeches. Saturday the LEDGER will print the address of Mr. Brown.

New Opera House.

The prospectus has been issued for a grand new opera house in this city to be known as "Quincy Associates' Hall," and subscriptions are invited in sums of $100 per share, to the amount of $25,000.

It will be a business block and will contain a large and small hall, commodious ante room, etc., etc.

Mr. A. G. Durgin is the leading spirit and at his store may be seen a prospectus which demonstrates clearly that it will be a paying investment for the stockholders.

The location is on Granite street in the rear of the Greenleaf and a sketch has already been prepared.

Already there have been some large subscriptions to the stock, and success seems assured, and work will probably be begun in a few weeks. The prospectus is pleased to encourage the enterprise, and will keep readers posted on the progress made.

Christ's Church Annual.

The annual meeting of the corporation of Christ's church was held Monday evening. Nearly every voter was present, it being the latest meeting ever held.

The following board of officers were elected:

Wardens, J. Francis Hayward, Elisha Packard.

Treasurer, Weston W. Osborne.

Clerk, Walter S. Randall.

Delegates to the District Convention, Z. S. Arnold, W. W. Osborne, J. B. Sewall, Mr. William P. Martin, for over twenty years on the board declined a re-election, and a vote of thanks was passed in appreciation of his services. Mr. Packard is the only gentleman who has served a longer term, he having over a quarter of a century to his credit.

Young Men's Christian Assn.

A business men's banquet will be held April 10.

Those who witnessed the gymnasium exhibit last year say that the one on Wednesday evening was away ahead of it.

The talk on "Custom Administration," Thursday evening, was exceedingly interesting. The process of exporting and importing was very clearly stated by Mr. Charles A. Foster. He exhibited the various forms used by the custom officers in delivering goods.

On Sunday, in Hancock hall, at 3.30 p. m., F. N. Scrier, M. D., will speak on "Secret Sins of Men." Dr. Scrier is one of the best known speakers in the country on this subject. There will be singing by a quartette and music by an orchestra.

The New Holiday.

The Hospital Aid Association is now much interested in a project to celebrate new holiday by means of a social gathering of all those in any way interested in this City Hospital. At the meeting Thursday afternoon it was decided that it should be held April 10th, from 3 to 9 o'clock.

Dr. W. W. Rice's. The other necessary plans were also made, a notice of which will appear next week in the columns of the local papers.

The President's Veto.

On Thursday noon, President Cleveland sent to the House his message, vetoing the bill for the coining of the Seigniorage.

Although not wholly unexpected it created immense excitement among the silver members. Just what effect it will have is present unknown; but the silver men will attempt to secure further legislation for the white metal. The President said he would have been pleased to have signed the bill, if he could believe that the public good would not be thereby endangered.

CITY BRIEFS.

The City Books are out. Not a very pleasant Easter. A little snow and ice Friday morning. April 1 is a good time to begin advertising.

J. L. Harvey moved down to Hoagus Neck on Wednesday.

Mr. O. C. Colton has moved from Canal street to Edwards street.

Rev. Daniel M. Wilson and family returned to Quincy Friday morning.

Mr. Window Burrell moved into his new house on Edison street, Thursday.

The Easter music at Christ's church will be repeated at the Sunday services.

Rev. Chas. S. Nicholson preaches at the Universalist church, Sunday morning.

Alden B. Hathaway of Brockton has moved to No. 15 Newcomb street, this city.

The Lyons Granite Co. invite proposals today for building stone sheds and engine house.

Mr. F. A. Topper, principal of the High school has removed from 3 Allegheny terrace to 4 Linden place.

Merry Mount lodge, A. O. U. W., initiated several candidates at its meeting Tuesday evening.

The City Council has thus far held no extra or adjourned meetings. The next meeting will be April 2.

Mrs. F. P. Lough has gone to New York for a two weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Brandau.

The mercury dropped to nineteen Tuesday morning, and it was nearly at the freezing point at noon.

There are fourteen entries for the second prize speaking contest of the Quincy High school, to be held April 2.

WOLLASTON.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will hold their next meeting Friday, April 6, at three o'clock, in the Congregational church. Rev. Blanche Bagley will read a paper on "Education and Culture, and their Relation to Life."

Business is rushing at the Wollaston machine shops and the works are running until 10 o'clock every night.

Mr. A. L. Baker has a long distance telephone in his house so that Wollaston again has night and Sunday telephone service.

Miss Edith R. Noyes composed the music for one of the Easter carols published by the Unitarian Sunday School society of Boston. The words are by the Rev. E. A. Horton.

Mr. S. A. Newcomb has resigned his position as assistant agent at Wollaston to accept a position as telegraph operator at Boston & Maine R. R. to take effect March 30.

The Wollaston Foundry is running on full time. Its pay roll amounts to $400 per week.

Nothing laudably about Wollaston, a Chas. Lindbergh has been opened in the hotel again.

Among the stock sales noted on Wednesday was 300 shares of Wollaston land at $1.50 per share.

Janitor Burnham of the Wollaston school would like an infallible recipe for catching a drunk.

Mr. William P. Chase, Jr., entertained the Busy Bess at his residence on Central avenue, Tuesday afternoon.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Wollaston Congregational church, gave an informal social in the church vestry on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Samuel M. King has accepted a call to the choir of the Central Congregational church, of Benning.

Mr. Charles B. Dickey succeeds Mr. King in the Wollaston Baptist choir.

The residence of Mr. William P. Whitmarsh of Wollaston was entered by burglars last week Friday morning. Entrance to the house was gained through a cellar window. The burglar found the door at the head of the stairs locked and deftly cut a hole large enough for a hand to be thrust through near the lock, and turned the key. A small quantity of jewelry was taken, nothing portable of any value being in the house, as it has been closed for over a week—Mrs. Whitmarsh being in Florida and Mr. Whitmarsh at Newport.

The burglary was probably committed by a gang of fellows who have been working the place for the past ten days disguised as peddlers.

Wollaston Unitarian Church.

Rev. James E. Bagley, pastor. Morning service at 10.45 a. m. Preaching by the pastor. Subject, "Judging by Appearance." Sunday School at 12 m.

Delightful Musical.

A delightful musical was given at the residence of Miss Carrie Raymond Lord of Wollaston on Monday evening, in aid of St. Christopher's mission. The affair was a great success from a musical point of view as well as financially.

Easter in the Churches.

Easter was observed at all of the Wollaston churches, Unitarian, Congregational, Methodist, Baptist and Episcopal, with the usual elaborate music, programmes and Easter sermons by the pastors.

The floral decorations were beautiful but not so extensive as those of last year. The attendance, notwithstanding the unpropitiousness of the weather, was unusually large, but there seemed to be less display in new gowns and bonnets than on previous Easter Sundays.

Rev. W. Steele, pastor. Morning service at 10.30 a. m. Subject: "The Saviour Remembered." Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at close of this service. Sunday school at close of this service. Evening service at 7. Subject: "The Modern Ethiopian." Y. P. S. C. E. Tuesday evening. Congregational prayer meeting Thursday evening. Come and welcome.

The dance at St. John's hall Monday evening was attended by about fifty couples. Richard Cole was floor director and John Mundy, Richard Gray and Michael Sullivan were aids.

After the business meeting Tuesday evening, the Lloyd Ladies of Clan McGregor No. 1, held a lemon party. There was a large attendance and the entertainment proved quite a success.

ATLANTIC.

The Atlantic Club are getting in shape for their minstrel show. A public telephone that can be used without the aid of an ear-trumpet, is much needed.

If our new city government is going to do anything for sidewalks in Atlantic a good beginning could be made on depot street from the station to Gurney's store.

The post office will soon go into the pit and people don't relish it much.

A good deal of censure is being heaped upon the heads of the Park commissioners for neglecting to provide Ward Six with the playground that it is entitled to. The pit that was selected has been lost now, as houses are fast going up, and the party now in Europe who thought this would keep, will find on his return that it is policy to strike while the iron is hot.

Mrs. W. G. Hammond and son Russell are visiting in Fitchburg, this week.

At last signs of life appear in the vicinity of the Walker street and the people have some hope that this important improvement is to be pushed through to a finish. A gang of men are at work taking off the loam and no doubt a first class street will soon opened up to the public.

Among the Boston streets are as dark as Egypt and all who travel through them at night will hail with pleasure the new light that has been promised. No time should be lost in putting it up.

Mr. G. A. Brown has placed the order for the timber, boards, etc., for the new Methodist church with a down-farm and the same will be shipped in a few days, direct to Atlantic. Mr. T. Lyons has received the contract for the stone work, and has nearly completed the excavating.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of Atlantic will be held Saturday evening.

Evening the young people of the Atlantic M. E. church gave a concertum super in the hall. It was a success and all who were present had a most enjoyable time.

The Easter concert, given by the Sunday school, was a success and the little folks did credit to themselves.

The Squantum Yacht club will formally open its new club house next Monday evening, April 9. There will be a collection of food, for the purpose of raising money for the poor.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH.

THE LARGEST FACTORY OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD.

Beware of paint and paste polish said to be labor saving, self-igniting, etc., which stain the hands, pit the iron, and fill the house with a poisonous and sickening odor when heated. Do not take any chance of being poisoned or burned to death with inflammable liquid stove polish, paint and enamel in bottles. "The Rising Sun Stove Polish" is safe, odorless, brilliant, the cheapest and best stove polish made, and the consumer pays for no expensive tin or glass package with every purchase.

For Your Child

SIGNS OF SPRING

Are as numerous as the sands of the seashore or the sure cures for rheumatism.

Two barefoot boys were seen playing marbles at Wollaston last week.

A well known actress has come out in a new spring (divorce) suit.

A dude was seen on Adams street Sunday with a thin eye-glass.

Bait for fishing parties is for sale at the leading drug stores (in quarts or pints).

Yea verily, spring is here, or ought to be. At any rate our spring clothes are here, and they are yearning to become your spring clothes. We want you to have them. Come and let the prices convince you how anxious we are.

Remember, buy of us and you buy direct of the manufacturer and save one profit.

THE EXAMPLE OF SALEM, which is considering a loan for current expenses to keep down the tax rate this year, is a warning to all cities; first, not to be too lavish in the appropriations, and second, to appropriate necessary indebtedness that the annual payments will not become a burden. Quincy is in much the same situation as Salem, and largely because of loans for ordinary city appropriations to extend over ten years. Was the debt of $330,730 equally apportioned, the amount falling due in 1894, would be but $33,730. In 1895, $33,730, and this rate of 1894 would be nearly $2 less than it now will be. To the ordinary city debt payments are to be added the water and playground bonds falling due, and the Auditor's statement shows the amounts payable for the next ten years to be:

Year.	Ordinary.	Water.	Park.	Total.
1894	$61,730	$34,000	$11,000	$106,730
1895	50,580	24,000	1,000	75,580

It may not be too late now for Ward One to obtain a playground out of the original appropriation of $50,000. The annual and monthly reports of Auditor Hall show a balance of over $30,000 unexpended. No payment has been made on the land taken in Ward Two because the award has not been accepted, and in Ward Five and Six no land has as yet been purchased, unless quite recently. If the advocates of breathing places in Ward One will make their case known by the end of the week, the time of the break is fixed as having been between twelve o'clock and daylight, as a son of Mrs. Bates was in the evening and did not arrive home until midnight.

An inventory shows the articles missing to be two diamond rings, diamond earrings, a seal skin cape, a gold watch, and a value of nearly $2000.

There is no clew to the burglars. There is a night officer on duty at East Weymouth until 2 o'clock and it is more than probable that the break was committed after that time.

The house of Mrs. J. Henry Clark on Lake street was also entered and thoroughly ransacked, but nothing is missing.

Constable Fernald of Quincy is at work on the case.

QUINCY WILL be interested in a bill to be favorably reported in the Legislature in a few days which gives authority to the Metropolitan Park Commissioners to proceed at once with the construction of roads and boulevards to connect the public parks in the several towns and cities, and authorizes the expenditure of $500,000.

With Hon. Charles Francis Adams on the board, and his known endorsement of the Blue Hills reservation and the Furnace Brook boulevard in this city it would not be surprising if a boulevard was built by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners from the Blue Hills reservation via Furnace Brook, to Merry Mount park, and thence along the shore both to Houghs Neck and Squantum. From Blue Hill the boulevard would extend to Franklin park and the other reservations in and about Boston, and it will be possible for Quincy people to take a delightful ride for many miles.

UNLESS QUINCY can have a boulevard to the Blue Hills reservation, our people cannot enjoy this grand park for which they are called upon to pay a large assessment. The boulevard should extend not simply to the reservation, but through it, from Willard street to Randolph avenue and Hillside street.

FITCHBURG HAS its ideas way up on a High school building, bids for erecting the same running from $112,000 to $158,000. It will be built of brick and stone.

Fire Alarm at Holbrook. At the town meeting in Holbrook, Monday evening, it was voted by a large majority, not to sell the steamer. The voters demanded even better protection, and made an appropriation of $450 for the introduction of the Stevens' fire alarm system, this to include one gun and five boxes.

The wide tire has been reported again in the Legislature.

THE FIRE apparatus would have responded to the fire of Sunday by a much more direct route had there been a box at the corner of Arnold street and Essex.

One should be located in that vicinity.

An order is under consideration by the Boston city government to secure a playground for Neponset.

The continued case of Reuben C. Clark for violating the Sunday law by entertaining persons not travelers on the Lord's day, came up for trial Wednesday.

The government put on several witnesses only one of whom testified that he bought tonic and cigarettes on the date alleged. The others could not fix the date. The defendant called a number of witnesses all of whom testified as far as they knew he kept an orderly store. Case continued until Thursday.

MILTON.

The first annual concert and ball of the Milton brass band held Monday evening at St. Mary's hall was a complete success, and as a result something like $60 will be cleared. In the concert preceded the ball the band was heard in two selections, and Mr. Samuel Wood in a cornet solo, all of which received well deserved applause.

The grand march which opened the ball was led by Mr. James Day and Miss Nellie O'Brien, and they were followed by nearly one hundred couples. Those in charge of the affair were: Floor director, James Day, assistant Frank C. Gallagher, aids, Frank Merrill, Axel Johnson, Stephen Magdon, William Lawton, Charles Gallagher, John Herli, Edwin W. Higgins, Samuel Wood, Samuel Wood, Jr., Malcolm Beaton, John J. Byrnes.

John Graham has been appointed janitor of the new school building at East Milton.

There is quite an appearance of activity near the East Milton depot. On one side is a new business block nearly completed, and on the other a gang of men busily engaged upon the foundation of another new business block.

Easter was very fittingly observed at the East Milton Congregational church. There was a beautiful display of flowers and pot plants very artistically arranged around the pulpit and altar. The whole reflecting great credit on the committee of those, the Misses Brackett, VanHorne and Kemp.

The first of the series of lectures given by Rev. H. C. Vrooman, preached a very interesting sermon on "The Resurrection," and the special music by the choir was very much enjoyed, and special praise is due Mr. Ellis, the organist, for his fine playing and song who so willingly gave their time and talents to help make the occasion a memorable one.

The concert was a complete success, all owing to the untiring work of Mrs. O. J. Baker, who planned the whole and trained the children, both in singing and speaking.

An attempt was made Wednesday to wreck the noon outward train at the crossing west of the Weymouth depot. A block of wood was so wedged in between the rails that the train struck it, it would have derailed, but the locomotive fortunately struck the block and discovered by the flagman.

The marriage of Mrs. Drusilla F. Litchfield of Scituate and Mr. George M. Davis of Weymouth took place Wednesday, Rev. William Wythe officiating. They will reside on Bryant avenue, Weymouth.

Officers Richards, Gary and Fay raided the premises of John Sullivan at East Weymouth, Saturday, and seized 34 bottles of beer.

The Marlboro opera company presented "Barth" at the Old Fellows' opera house at East Weymouth, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Young Men's Social club.

Wednesday night and goods to the value of nearly $2,000 was carried off.

The place visited was that of Mrs. Leavitt Bates on Broad street, and entrance was made by the back door.

The time of the break is fixed as having been between twelve o'clock and daylight, as a son of Mrs. Bates was in the evening and did not arrive home until midnight.

These are the standing committees for the conference year and assume their offices on the day of adjournment of the session of the annual conference.

Hose 4 Hearing. The joint committee on Fire Department and Ordinances of the City Council held an investigation Monday evening of the trouble in Hose Co. No. 4, and the causes which led to the recent discharge of the company's captain and four of the men.

Chief Williams was the first witness and stated that the company refused to give him the records and that the old members made it disagreeable for the new men and that when the furnishings were removed he should have been notified. He had no fault to find with the efficiency of the discharged men.

District Engineer Mahoney in response to questions said: He had consulted with several persons about the make up of the company. The company to a certain extent was satisfactory. After the first which he had no answer, witness asked the steward how many members responded. He replied 3 of the new and 1 old. The steward opened the door to start when one of the old members said, "No, if they let us let them come over as they wish."

He had heard that the old men had made statements that they would let the new men haul the carriage. Witness asked Capt. Burrell for the records and was told a copy. He did not have them, but he had them in his power for their welfare and comfort.

He then took the seat car for home to show his wife the gifts.

Happy Surprised. "Earl Polson Weeks, of the employees of the Quincy & Boston Street Railway, March 20, 1894," was the inscription on a handsome gold-lined silver cup that was presented to Superintendent Benjamin J. Weeks at the office of the street railway Saturday by the employees of the company, for his long and able service.

The cup was a silver knife, fork and spoon and a silver puff box.

The set was a very handsome affair and was a complete surprise to Mr. Weeks, who in the gift was another token of respect by which he is held by his faithful employees. It is doubtful if he was more pleased with the gift than was General Dan Moran whose good-natured countenance was wreathed with smiles, that proved the old men were not so much as they were.

Supt. Weeks, in behalf of his wife and son, thanked the boys for their kind remembrance and assured them that there was no superintendent that had a more faithful and honest set of employees than he did, and that he would always do whatever lay in his power for their welfare and comfort.

School Committee Meeting.

The regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening but the only business transacted in open session was the announcement that Miss Rena M. Chamberlain of the Wollaston school had resigned to go to Milton for an increase of salary, and the resignation of Miss Sarah M. Aldrich of the Quincy school on account of sickness.

In executive session the matter of the new high school building furnished the subject for discussion in which the committee, Major Hodges, Commissioner Eaton and Architect Taylor took part.

From what can be learned, the trouble at the building is simply that while Deputy Inspector Moore approved and accepted the plans, Chief Inspector Wade will not.

The original plans called for an iron stairway at the rear of the building on the outside, as an extra exit from the second and third floors. This was acceptable to Deputy Moore, and building operations were commenced. Recently, however, Chief Wade visited the building and refused to accept the building, as an extra exit was not provided on the inside of the building from the second and third floors.

This left matters in a rather complicated condition, as operations have progressed so far that it is impossible to build an additional exit on the inside.

As the matter now stands, if Chief Wade still refuses to accept the building that has already been accepted by his deputy, a tower will probably be built on the front of the building in which will be located the iron stairway required as an extra exit from the second and third floors.

Quincy Musical Society. The second meeting of the Quincy Musical society was held in the parlor of the Greenleaf Tuesday evening, and an organization was effected by choice of the following officers:

President.—Mr. L. D. Williams.
Vice President.—Mr. T. B. Pollard.
Secretary.—Mrs. E. W. Sheppard.
Treasurer.—Mr. A. L. Hood.
Executive Committee.—Mr. W. W. O'Brien, Miss Carrie F. Spear and Mrs. N. S. Hunting.
A varied and entertaining programme by the members had been arranged, as follows:

Quartet—"I think of Thee." Harle Messrs. Fiske, Harlow, Wood and Pollard.
Aria—"The Wind." Miss Carrie Fiske.
Song—"Harmonies of the Winds." Mr. Eben Wallace Sheppard.
Sonata for Violin and Piano. Mr. Jeanette N. Rice.
